ENGINEER IS INJURED WHEN LOCOMOTIVE HITS BROKEN RAIL ON CURVE

Samuel Green, 25, brakeman, Brilliant, and Demar Myers, 28, fireman, Steubenville, are dead following crash near Stanton Park, Three Miles North of Steubenville.

TWO OF CREW CRUSHED AS ENGINE OVERTURNS; ANOTHER SAVES LIFE

Eight of 25 Gondolas, Loaded With Coal for Carnegie Steel Company at Mingo Junction, are Derailed and Telescoped by Impact of Smash-up—Traffic Crippled.

Two men were killed and a third injured when a westbound freight train on the Wheeling division of the Pennsylvania railroad struck a broken rail and was wrecked about three miles north of Steubenville at 5 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The dead: SAMUEL GREEN, 25, brakeman, of Brilliant; instantly killed.

DEMAR MYERS, 28, fireman, of Steubenville; badly scalded and crushed; died in Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The injured: Homer Bush, 42, Conway, Pa., engineer on train; suffering from cuts bruises and possibly internal injuries; in Steubenville hospital.

The train which was made up at Port Homer, was traveling toward Steubenville with a string of about 25 cars, most of them steel gondolas, loaded with coal for the Carnegie Steel company, at Mingo Junction. The tender of the engine was traveling first, according to railroad officials.

At a sharp curve in the track a few hundred feet east of Stanton park, three miles north of Steubenville, the engine left the track. The locomotive, traveling about 25 miles an hour, overturned. Myers and Green, who were riding in the cab of the engine, were caught beneath it. Bush, however, leaped, saving his life.

Traffic Is Tied Up.

About eight cars, directly back of the locomotive, also left the tracks and were telescoped by the impact. The remainder of the train remained on the rails.

A wreck train was sent from Steubenville. Green was dead when rescuers released him. Myers also died beneath the heavy locomotive, was badly scalded by escaping steam. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance, but died in a few hours after reaching the institution. Bush was also removed to the hospital.

Traffic over the line was tied up for nearly 12 hours while the wreckage was being cleared away. Passenger and freight trains were routed over the Panhandle division to Pittsburgh. The tracks were cleared at day break Wednesday to permit regular schedules.

Grocer Is Held For Court After Brandishing Gun

Charged with pointing firearms, John Mosby, who operates a grocery store in Eighteenth street, Wellsburg, was bound over to the grand jury under $500 when he was arraigned before Mayor J. S. Barnes, of Wellsburg, Tuesday. He was also fined $10 and costs for using obscene language.

Mosby is alleged to have driven R. L. Hamilton of Chicago, representative of a baking powder firm, from his store at the point of a revolver. Hamilton, a new representative of the company in this district, he did not know that Mosby had a grievance against his company.

Chief of Police Fultz and Mayor Barnes arrested Mosby and at the hearing Mosby is alleged to have used abusive language.

He paid his fine and furnished bond.

BENNETT ASKS KIWANIS TO OPPOSE SCHOOL CLOSING PLAN

Claims Board of Education Would Save Only $615.80.

PATRONS' STAND

Counsel for Pupils' Parents Submits Argument.

Alleging that the saving made by the proposed closing of the Third street school would amount to only $615.80 for the remainder of the school year and that the step would not be one for economy, Attorney Ben L. Bennett, counsel for the Third street school patrons, Wednesday filed with a committee of the Kiwanis club, a statement, urging the members to go on record against the plan.

The statement declares that if the school board acts, patrons of one school will be penalized in order to establish another department in the high school; furthermore, that the step would be setting a bad precedent, that children's lives would be endangered at hazardous street crossings, that tax valuations in the district should be lowered and that the action would be a step backward in the life of the community.

The special committee from the Kiwanis club visited the board of education last Thursday and heard arguments favoring the closing of the school. Attorney Bennett's letter was framed in order that the committee may know both sides of the controversy before acting.

Letter to Kiwanis Club. Trades and Labor council, also through a special committee, adopted a resolution opposing the proposal. This committee also conferred with the board of education last Thursday after they had heard the arguments of Attorney Bennett.

BANDITS LOOT PENNSY BANK

Cashier is Forced to Turn Over $4,000 in Cash.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22.—State police and county authorities are making a wide search of the country between here and Johnstown for the two bandits who held up F. J. Sutton, cashier of the Citizens' National bank as he opened the bank this morning and forced him to open the vault for them at the point of revolvers, escaping with more than $4,000 in cash.

The bandits trussed up Sutton after the robbery and were leaving the bank when they met W. B. Hammond, president of the institution, coming in. Before Hammond had an opportunity to make an outcry, he was struck unconscious. The two robbers jumped into their waiting automobile and speeded toward New Florence, Pa. State police were immediately notified and detailed to the search. The bandits were said to have used a Studebaker touring car.

Woman, Mistaking Acid for Glycerine, Burns Her Face

Mrs. Arch Ingram, Third street, Chester, was burned Tuesday night when she applied carbolic acid to her face, mistaking it for glycerine.

Mrs. Ingram, before retiring, picked up a bottle from a shelf which she supposed to contain glycerine as a remedy for a chapped skin. Without looking at the label on the bottle, she poured a quantity into the palm of her hand and closing her eyes, to protect them from the liquid, applied the acid to her face.

Members of the family summoned Dr. George E. Lewis, who dressed the burns.

One Hundred Twenty-five Vice-presidents to be Chosen.

Members of the East Liverpool Republican central committee met at G. O. P. headquarters, Washington street, Tuesday evening to complete plans for the Republican rally to be held at the Ceramic Theater, Friday evening, at which ex-Governor Harry L. Davis will be the principal speaker.

Ushers, who will assist in seating party voters at the theatre, were named as follows: James F. Brock, George Bratt, Charles Bolles, James Rayl, Jr., John Ward, Stanley Hilbert, William Irwin, William Crawford, James Kennedy, Lawrence Stofel, Charles Bryan and George Boyce. Chairman of the meeting and vice presidents to the number of approximately 125, who will occupy seats on the stage, will be announced Thursday. Republicans from Steubenville, Wellsburg, Lisbon, Salem and East Palestine are expected to attend the rally.

ONTARIO AWAITS WET-DRY VOTE

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 22.—The greatest vote ever polled in the history of the Province of Ontario is expected to be rolled up tomorrow. The voters will decide whether the present prohibition laws will continue or be supplanted by government control of the liquor problem. The women's vote is expected to be the deciding factor.

Ontario always has shown a ponderous dry majority heretofore. The election is being watched closely as a barometer for the dries, who may try to recover other lost territory if Ontario still shows a dry sentiment.

Withdrawal of Occupational Army From Ruhr is Under Way as Poilus Quit Industrial Community.

DORTMUND, Germany, Oct. 22.—Evacuation of the Ruhr by French troops got under way in earnest today when they departed from the city of Dortmund. French and German flags were flown when the French Garrison forces began leaving at 10 o'clock. There was neither cheering nor hissing. Dortmund is an important railway, mining and industrial city on the northeast corner of the Ruhr.

German residents, massed to see the departure of their former foes, maintained complete silence as the troops paraded from their barracks through the streets of the quiet little city to the railroad station. There was no hissing, no untoward demonstration.

French and Belgian civilians bared their heads as the colors of the armies of occupation passed, but the Germans remained stolidly inactive. Immediately after the French had left their headquarters, a German café owner, whose business place had been used as part of the headquarters, raised again the sign famous before the dark days of the war, reading: "Beer and frankfurters for sale here."

Port Homer Woman Freed as Husband Tells Shooting Story

Mrs. Francis Harris, 25, of Port Homer, who shot and wounded her husband William C. Harris, Sunday afternoon, has been released by the Jefferson county officials after her husband, a patient in the East Liverpool City Hospital, assumed all responsibility for the shooting.

Mrs. Harris was arrested, charged with shooting with intent to kill. It was alleged that she shot her husband in the back with a shot gun after he had threatened to kill their two younger children.

The wounded man admitted that he had been responsible for the shooting and urged that his wife be liberated in order that she might return to their home and care for her children. The wife came to the City Hospital Tuesday, where the reconciliation was effected.

Hospital attendants say that Harris is recovering.

Mrs. J. J. McKenna, Washington Street, Is Badly Scalded

Mrs. Joseph J. McKenna, Washington street, was suffering Wednesday from scalds, sustained while engaged with the family washing. When leaning across a wash boiler, filled with clothes, to turn down the fire, the vessel suddenly boiled over, the water being thrown on the woman's face, neck and chest. Her injuries were dressed by Dr. Albert Michaels.

FOUR MORE MEN DIE OF BURNS SUFFERED IN POWDER BLAST

Additional Victims Succumb in Hospital at Norfolk.

PROBE ACCIDENT

Naval Experts Blame Friction for Explosion on Cruiser Trenton.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 22.—The death toll in the explosion of firing powder aboard the U. S. cruiser Trenton mounted higher today.

Four more deaths at the naval hospital at Portsmouth this morning brought the total to 12.

Those who died this morning were Arthur J. McCormick, Charlestown, Mass.; Franklin B. Jeffery, Lynn, Mass.; George D. Luker, of Newark, N. J., and George J. Gaffney, of New York City.

Cruiser Not Seriously Damaged. The explosion in the forward turret of the Trenton is said to have been the first of its kind in the American navy. There have been other explosions, naval officers say, but in every instance the cause of it was traceable to sparks from gun breeches, back fire or flashes from electric wires.

But the guns on the Trenton had not yet been fired and it is the theory of naval men that on holding the charge, preparatory to firing the ten inch rifle, metal on the apparatus caused friction that set off the powder charge.

A total of 250 pounds of powder exploded. The cruiser is not seriously damaged. It is said, the exploding loose powder being less destructive and more in the nature of a fire than would have been an explosion of shells.

Experts Assigned to Inquiry. Under orders of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, three ordinance experts from Washington will arrive here today or tomorrow to assist in the investigation aboard the Trenton to ascertain the cause of the explosion. Officers from the scouting fleet will compose the board of inquiry and will be selected by Rear Admiral McCully, its commander. The investigation is expected to begin tomorrow.

One officer, Lieut. John A. Sedgwick, of Winthrop, Mass., and 11 men are under treatment at the naval hospital. Most of them will be discharged within a week, it was announced.

Lieutenant Sedgwick was one of the outstanding heroes of the disaster. Blown overboard into a rough sea by the force of the explosion, he saved the lives of two men struggling in the water. A life belt thrown to him from the cruiser, he refused to don, and instead placed it around one of the men stunned by the force of the blast. Sedgwick is burned about the face and head and sustained a sprained wrist.

DENY DIVINITY OF JESUS CHRIST AND KEYSTONE OF ARCH OF CHRISTIAN RELIGION IS KNOCKED OUT WITH CRASH, SAYS DR. W. E. BIEDERWOLF

By T. T. JONES.

That Jesus Christ was divine, that he was more than a good man are fundamental truths that must be accepted or the whole system of Christianity religion will break irreparably, declared Dr. W. E. Biederwolf in his initial sermon of a series of discourses on the deity of the Nazarene at the third service of the union evangelistic campaign at the Second and Washington street tabernacle Tuesday night. "Deny it and the keystone of the arch of the whole structure is knocked out with a crash," he said.

That the church herself needs a clear, clean and concise reaffirmation of her own faith in her Creator and that ministers have been remiss in their ecclesiastical vows, making possible the present day question mark of many of her members and contributing to the very apparent ignorance of others, were facts so patent as to be easily discernible, he affirmed.

More the teacher than the orator for the moment; more the theologian than the dramatist, though in turn bringing into play all his capabilities in these lines, the evangelist exhausted Scriptural statement and Jesus' history and personality, indulged in comparisons with other religious founders and quoted interviews with devotees of opposite viewpoints regarding them and finally reached the unalterable conclusion that He was what He himself said He was—"the true God."

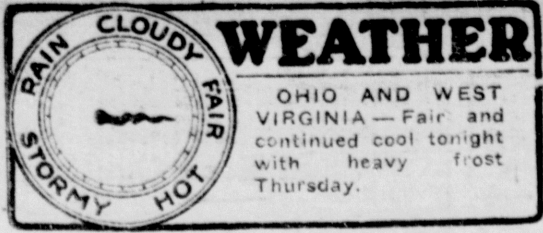

Disregarding the modernist position as untenable in view of what he held the contrary in plain consistent Biblical statements of both Jesus and other writers and likewise disposing as inconsequential for the same reasons the ideas of the Unitarians, Universalists, Infidels and Spiritualists, he declared the certainty of his convictions to be the world's greatest truth which subsequent events following his birth and life on earth had amply proven in individual, national and international experience and relationships.

Five reasons, he asserted, foundation his findings and made for his belief in the divinity of the Christ: because Bible writers and Christ said He was divine; because of His matchless character; because of His masterly teaching; because of His marvelous influence, and because of His mighty works.

"Today, as in the past, Dr. Biederwolf said, 'Christ is asking you all 'who do you think I am?'"

"Many have believed as I and you that Christ was God. Accordingly, He has become the transformer of the world's life, the reconstructor of human society, the animator of human progress, the one Master of the world's civilization. And by this I know He is divine."

His miracles attest His divinity. There is no better attested fact in history than that of his resurrection. I am more certain that Jesus rose from the dead than that the battle of Bunker Hill was fought. But greater than all is the miracle of His grace and these He is doing today as when He walked the Palestinian plains and hills.

"The church herself needs a clear, clean and concise reaffirmation of her own faith in her Creator and that ministers have been remiss in their ecclesiastical vows, making possible the present day question mark of many of her members and contributing to the very apparent ignorance of others, were facts so patent as to be easily discernible, he affirmed.

More the teacher than the orator for the moment; more the theologian than the preacher; more the analyst than the dramatist, though in turn bringing into play all his capabilities in these lines, the evangelist exhausted Scriptural statement and Jesus' history and personality; indulged in comparisons and quoted views with devotees of opposite views; reached the unalterable conclusion that He was what He himself said He was—"the true God."

Disregarding the modernist's position as untenable in view of what he held the contrary in plain consistent Biblical statements of both Jesus and other writers and likewise disposing as inconsequential for the same reasons the ideas of the Unitarians, Universalists, Infidels and Spiritualists, he declared the certainty of his convictions to be the world's greatest truth which subsequent events following his birth and life on earth had amply proven in individual, national and international experience and relationships.

Five reasons, he asserted, foundationed his findings and made for his belief in the divinity of the Christ-man: because Bible writers and Christ said He was divine; because of His matchless character; because of His masterly teaching; because of His marvelous influence, and because of His mighty works.

"Today, as in the past, Dr. Biederwolf said, 'Christ is asking you all 'who do you think I am?'

"Many have believed as I and you that Christ was God. Accordingly, He has become the transformer of the world's life, the reconstructor of human society, the animator of human progress, the one Master of the world's civilization. And by this I know He is divine.

"His miracles attest His divinity." There is no better attested fact in history than that of his resurrection. I am more certain that Jesus rose from the dead than that the battle of Bunker Hill was fought.

But greater than all is the miracle of His grace and these He is doing today as when He walked the Palestinian plains and hills.

He is redeeming both the good and the bad. He shows the rich how really poor they are; He takes the self-sufficient and shows them how really dependent they are and He redeems the moral man and woman to a new and powerful life. And He does the same for the soul of the debauchee and the drunken sot.

Has He ever touched your life? Do you want a Saviour like that—a Christ who is omnipotent, One Who "being in the form of God, took upon Himself the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of man?"

What shall the end be for you? Even now you can't afford to live without Him.

What will you do when conscience accuses you? What will you do when misfortune and adversity overwhelm you?

What will you do in the night of despair and the end has come? Only the blood of Jesus can finally cleanse you of your sin. He is wonderful Counsellor the Mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace!

Will you crown Him your Lord? Preceding the sermon Director of Music McEwan put the big choir through a vigorous concert of song which elicited applause from the audience.

With Mr. Heaton, Mr. McEwan sang his own song, "The Myr Ph" and quickly both the choir and the audience caught the refrain. Mr. McEwan again contributed a solo, "Your Best Friend is Always Near."

Following the sermon the choir was quickly dismissed and a conference of church members held, for which Dr. Biederwolf remained and made a brief address, exhorting them to a united and loyal effort in bringing the unchurched and unsaved to a realization of their desperate situation without the folds of God's grace.

"There are people in East Liverpool, who take upon themselves the name of Christ and who will not lift their little finger for Him," he said. "Some of your young men and women will never get salvation unless they do so now. It is therefore extremely important that you function at this time as the Christian you profess to be."

DAVIS PLANS NEW YORK TRIP

Democratic Nominee
O. K.'s Drive to Win Metropolis.

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
VINCENNES, Ind., Oct. 22.—John W. Davis completed battle plans for his presidential campaign on a climactic drive to carry New York City.

Davis who came here for a final sortie into Indiana, approved a program by which he will devote the last week of his campaign to a whirlwind tour of New York's five boroughs. Beginning next Saturday, the drive will last until the eve of election.

In order to give more time to the New York cause, Davis cancelled a proposed trip to New England. His board of strategy, it was said, advised against his appearance in Boston because of local factional differences, and advocated additional dates in the metropolis. The nominee also shortened his western drive to favor New York City. This plan of action was decided upon as the result of the earnest requests of George Olney, leader of Tammany Hall, who told the nominee a personal drive there to close the campaign would swing New York into the Democratic column. On the result of this venture, it was plainly indicated, rest most of the nominee's hopes for success on November 4. While Davis feels he may win the presidency without New York's 45 electoral votes, it was said he is absolutely confident of success if he carries the empire state.

The candidate came here this morning from Louisville to fill an afternoon speaking engagement.

Chester Republicans Plan Business Meet Wednesday Evening

A business meeting of Chester Republicans will be held at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday evening in the I. O. O. F. K. of P. hall in the McDonald building corner Fifth street and Carolina avenue. All members of the party are urged to attend.

ed to Frank G. Jones, chairman of the Kiwanis committee:
"When the recent protest against the suspension of the operation of the Third street school was presented to the board of education by residents of that district the board stated 'if the people do not wish this change then we have no desire to put it into effect' and we were granted a reasonable length of time to carry our case to the people for their expression. As you have had submitted to you the argument in favor of the suspension, we desire you to consider on our behalf the facts hereinafter set forth as reasons for protest against such action.

"Thirty-three years ago it was deemed necessary to erect on Third street at its present location a four room school house. Since that time there have been no changes in this particular community which would retard the growth or decrease the population and it has steadily grown. Few, if any, dwellings have been replaced by business buildings but new homes have been erected and several are now in course of construction and the necessity for a school in this locality still exists.

Free from Perils of Traffic.
"The board of education which selected this site for a school house acted wisely indeed, as it is so situated as to be almost free from the perils of traffic, both automobile and street car. The proposed change of schools would transfer the children from the Third street building, who are in the first and second grade, to the Fourth street building and those in the third and fourth grade to the Sixth street building. This means that the little tots in the first and second grades, almost babies, must leave their place of safety, where mothers could send them without anxiety or alarm and to reach their destination must cross the street car line on Market street and the street car line on Washington street, while those of the third and fourth grades

SHAVINGS AND SAWDUST FOUND IN DR. BIEDERWOLF'S TABERNACLE

The first men's meeting of the campaign will be held on Sunday afternoon at the tabernacle. "This is a great address of Dr. Biederwolf and you all should hear it," declared Manager James Heaton to the audience on Tuesday night. The meeting will begin at 2:30 o'clock promptly. There will be no reservations of seats at this service. Dr. Biederwolf's subject will be "The White Life."

The first women's meeting of the campaign will be held on next Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Wilma Davis, woman's worker of the party, will be the speaker. Her subject will be "The Rose of Sharon."

Dr. Biederwolf was the guest of the Boosters' club in Chester, W. Va., at its noon day dinner on Tuesday. He made a brief address and enjoyed the visit greatly. "There are some fine people in Chester," he commented at Tuesday night's meeting.

The first shop meeting was held at the Laughlin pottery (East End) on Tuesday noon and was largely attended. Miss Wilma Davis, women's worker, and Rev. Fred Benner, men's worker, spoke, and James Heaton, manager of the evangelistic party, sang. Will J. Scott, industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A., arranged and directed the meeting.

Hundreds of church men and women remained for the after service at the tabernacle on Tuesday evening. They were addressed by Dr. Biederwolf. Plans were outlined for the campaign and pledges of loyal support given by the members present.

Both the services on Thursday and Friday night will be for men and women as are all the night sessions of the campaign. However, the men of the churches, meeting at the First Presbyterian church, will march to the tabernacle on Thursday night and the women, assembling at the same place, will do likewise on Friday night.

must cross the street car line of Fourth street; must cross Fifth street, East Liverpool's main artery of motor traffic and where it keeps an adult always on the alert and finally cross the double track street railway on Sixth street.

"To say that we should not object to the traffic peril because all other schools have it to contend with, is of course folly, and such argument constitutes an additional and substantial reason for the retention of this building as an active school house and places it in a class by itself so far as any thought of suspension is concerned.

"The question of the purpose of this action on the part of the board of education is the first to confront you. We are told that it is to procure funds for the re-establishment of an elective course in manual training in the high school. If this is the purpose then we contend that it is hardly fair to penalize our particular district to enable the board to carry out its design, because it would be making us practically contribute the entire cost while the equitable method would be to procure the necessary money at the expense of the entire East Liverpool school district and not by depriving any single portion of the city of school facilities.

False Economy, is Claim.

"It would also certainly be a bad precedent to suspend the activities of a school to procure funds for the re-establishment or creation of courses in other districts or departments. The present board may not hold office forever and if its example is to be followed, what would prevent a succeeding board from suspending a school in the East End, Northside, West End or elsewhere in order to establish a course in advanced music or domestic science.

"This proposed step by the board of education has been referred to as economy, but to us it appears as false economy. To suspend the operation of one school to create or re-establish a course or department in another, would be no more economy than for a municipal corporation to abandon one fire department and then erect another.

"But for the sake of argument let us assume that it is not for the purpose of acquiring funds to re-establish the course hereinafore indicated and that it is solely an effort to economize. Then we say the amount saved certainly does not justify the change. Basing our figure upon the

Two shop meetings were held on Wednesday noon. Miss Davis was the speaker at that held at the Smith-Phillips pottery and Rev. Fred Benner spoke at the C. C. Thompson plant.

Cottage prayer meetings, began Wednesday morning, will be held on each Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning until the end of the campaign.

To counteract any tendency towards a coldness of atmosphere, additional furnaces or stoves will at once be placed in the tabernacle.

Continued and increasing favorable comment is being made of the big choir as nightly it booms out the various campaign songs under William McEwan's direction. Even the ministers have caught the contagion of music and they respond with alacrity when called upon by Mr. McEwan to sing a number by themselves.

Director McEwan's song, "The Merry Pit," was generally sung by both the audience and the choir on Tuesday night following its publication in the Review-Tribune. Preserved in their hymn books the song will become one of the campaign levers.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon on Wednesday night will be "The Meanest Man in the World; He Comes from East Liverpool."

Miss Davis' Bible class will begin at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the tabernacle. It will be continued at the same hour on Thursday and Friday of this week and thereafter at 4 o'clock each afternoon or immediately at the conclusion of the afternoon discourse.

The Salvation Army band has proffered its services during the campaign. It will appear first on Thursday night when men of all the churches will march to the tabernacle from their meeting place at the First Presbyterian church.

best possible information we have been able to obtain, the total saving would amount to about $615.80 and making an allowance of $200 for anything we may have overlooked would make a total of $815.80. This amount is derived by elimination of the wages of one janitor at $34.40 per month for seven months and a reduction of $25 per month for seven months in the salary of one teacher. Nothing can be allowed for electric light and as it will be necessary to provide light regardless of where these particular children attend school and our information is that sufficient fuel is on hand to heat the school building until Feb. 1st.

"As against the above mentioned saving there must be taken into consideration the necessity of keeping up fire insurance and repairs and employing a watchman or caretaker of some sort to prevent the building from becoming a target for missiles and stones thrown by boys or a rendezvous for rats and tramps and an eye sore to the community.

Seven Arguments

"The residents of this vicinity purchased their homes, no doubt paying additional for them by reason of the proximity of a school and the tax valuation of their property is undoubtedly higher by reason of this fact. To take away the school without proportionate reduction in taxes does not seem just. It is not a matter of seeking for a new school, but we are begging to be allowed to retain that which we have. The Third street school has built a reputation for efficiency and we wish to keep this record clean. We are proud of the efforts of our teachers and the accomplishments of our pupils.

"We are not attempting to criticize the board of education nor to interfere with its management of the schools. We entertain for each of its members the highest regard and appreciate their honesty of purpose but feel that the suspension of the Third street school would be an error in judgment. This letter is not intended as a criticism, but a statement of the facts as we view them in carrying out the idea of taking our case to the people.

"We, therefore, feel that the operation of the Third street school should not be suspended for the following reasons:

"First: To suspend one school for the purpose of creating or re-establishing a department in another is a

DAWES VISITS PITTSBURGH

Two Addresses on Program Before Trip to Wheeling.

By ALBERT BAENZINGER.
EN ROUTE WITH GENERAL DAWES IN PENNSYLVANIA, Oct. 22.—General Charles G. Dawes, vice presidential candidate, was en route to Pittsburgh today from Philadelphia, where he spoke last night. He will speak on the constitution at noon in the Harris theatre in Pittsburgh. Later he will deliver an address in Washington, Pa., before crossing into West Virginia, where tonight in Wheeling he will deliver his first speech in that state.

Dawes' friends said today that his Philadelphia speech was the greatest oratorical effort he has made thus far in the campaign. He went into details of the budget and surprised the audience by asserting that the law creating it was only an incident in its accomplishment and that the whole plan could have been put into effect without the budget law.

He said the reason that was not done before President Harding created him director of the budget, was that former presidents had not taken a position as head of the routine government business.

He warned against a change in administration in these words: "This government is safe in its present system of doing business. Just as long as the president of the United States keeps his position as head of the routine business organization."

"If you go making any rash experiments and changing the president when you have a good president in—a close president who watches the nickels—well, you look out."

Cut Rate Fish Co. Will Operate Sanitary Meat Shop

The Cut Rate Fish & Provision Company, which operates a fish market in the City Market House, St. Clair avenue, has taken over the stand formerly held by the Sanitary Meat Market, where a meat market will be conducted.

The stand will operate under the name of the Sanitary Meat Market and will be under the management of Abe Bollinsky. The new owner has already taken charge of the meat market which is now open for business.

Gore Will Visit Salem.

Congressman Charles R. Stengle of New York will speak at East Palestine Tuesday, Oct. 28. Mrs. Jeanette Renshaw, a woman's worker of Pittsburgh, is also slated for a meeting which will be held at Lisbon on Friday, Oct. 31. T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will visit Wellsville on Saturday, Nov. 1. Places for all three rallies will be fixed at a meeting of the central and executive committees which will be held at Lisbon Friday evening.

A delegation of Democrats from this city will go to Salem Thursday evening to hear ex-United States Senator Thomas Gore of Oklahoma, who will speak at a rally in the high school auditorium. This will be Mr. Gore's only appearance in eastern Ohio during the present campaign.

penalty on the community losing its school.

"Second: It is not economy. 'Third: It is suspended for economy without the re-establishing of the new department above referred to the amount saved does not justify the change.

"Fourth: It is setting a bad precedent.

"Fifth: Children would be taken from a place of safety and sent into one of danger. The slightest injury to one child by reason of the proposed change would more than offset the savings of years.

"Sixth: If the school is suspended, tax valuations should be reduced in proportion to the loss.

"Seventh: A vacant school house is a step backward in the civic life of any community.

"This is our case and we submit it to you feeling assured it will receive your best consideration."

STRAIGHT-FRONT-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Unless he was an arrogant and consummate hypocrite or the victim of acute mental aberration Jesus was what his disciple, Thomas, said He was: his "Lord" and his "God" and consequently our own.

Next to finding out what you will do with Him the most important question in the world is: who was Jesus?

Deny the deity and divinity of Jesus Christ and you throw away the keystone of the arch of Christianity and the whole thing comes down with a crash.

To say that Jesus Christ was simply a good man with more divinity than any other man robs Him of His Saviourhood and strips Him of His power to redeem the human unit from sin.

Man is a religious animal and he simply cannot shake off his religious instincts.

As He did in His Palestine days Jesus Christ is still asking: "What do you think of Me? Who do men say that I am?"

Jesus Christ claimed His deity on the threefold ground of His divine knowledge, His divine power and His divine authority.

Every man has some good points but Jesus Christ had them all; and he had them all in absolute perfection.

Christ's own words alone would hardly make a vest pocket edition, but the books written about Him and His words would fill a thousand Congressional libraries.

The heights of Christ's words have never been scaled; their depths have never been sounded.

To try to explain the marvelous transformations of character apart from the mighty working power of Jesus Christ is to do violence to reason, insult the memory of Godly men and pour contempt upon the name of the Christ who saved them.

Without Christ what will you do when the end comes?

Wonderful Counselor, the mighty God! the everlasting Father! the Prince of Peace—all these and more is the Christ.

Two Cities Ask Reason for Delay In Road Opening

The East Liverpool and the Wellsville Chambers of Commerce forwarded telegrams Wednesday to the federal road department, at Columbus, inquiring as to the cause of the delay in opening the East Liverpool-Wellsville road, known as inter-county highway No. 7, Section P.

At a meeting of the good roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday afternoon, it was announced that the road could not be opened until it had passed federal inspection. A telegram was forwarded W. M. Webber, senior highway engineer, U. S. department of agriculture, bureau of public roads, Columbus, urging that this highway be inspected immediately in order that it may be opened without further delay.

The county is now completing its work of erecting a guard fence along the fill near Brady's cut.

Earliest known English public swimming pool was advertised in London, May 28, 1742, to be open and that "waiters attend daily to teach or assist Gentlemen in the said Swimming Bath if required."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The low priced railroad stocks continued to lead the forward movement in stock prices in the early trading on the stock exchange. Industrial and specialty stocks were strong in spots, particularly where as in the case of American hide and leather preferred, Mallory Silk and Copper stocks, special developments were favorable to an appreciation in market value of stocks.

Special interest was displayed in Frisco common, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Rock Island, St. Paul common and preferred, Texas and Pacific, Katy, Missouri Pacific, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and other rails which are expected to benefit either through higher net earnings in the present year, or through amalgamation with other strong railroad systems in accordance with plans now being worked out.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis sold one point higher at 115. Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred was up two points at 234; Rock Island 1 at 344; Frisco common in new high territory at 374; Wabash common and preferred were near the top prices for the year. The St. Paul stocks also joined in the movement, with the preferred nearly two points higher at 214, while the common was up 1 at 124; Southern Railway was irregular.

best possible information we have been able to obtain, the total saving would amount to about $615.80 and making an allowance of $200 for anything we may have overlooked would make a total of $815.80. This amount is derived by elimination of the wages of one janitor at $44.40 per month for seven months and a reduction of $25 per month for seven months in the salary of one teacher. Nothing can be allowed for electric light and as it will be necessary to provide light regardless of where these particular children attend school and our information is that sufficient fuel is on hand to heat the school building until Feb. 1st.

"As against the above mentioned saving there must be taken into consideration the necessity of keeping up fire insurance and repairs and employing a watchman or caretaker of some sort to prevent the building from becoming a target for missiles and stones thrown by boys or a rendezvous for rats and tramps and an eye sore to the community.

Seven Arguments

"The residents of this vicinity purchased their homes, no doubt paying additional for them by reason of the proximity of a school and the tax valuation of their property is undoubtedly higher by reason of this fact.

To take away the school without proportionate reduction in taxes does not seem just. It is not a matter of seeking for a new school, but we are begging to be allowed to retain that which we have. The Third street school has built a reputation for efficiency and we wish to keep this record clean. We are proud of the efforts of our teachers and the accomplishments of our pupils.

"We are not attempting to criticize the board of education nor to interfere with its management of the schools. We entertain for each of its members the highest regard and appreciate their honesty of purpose but feel that the suspension of the Third street school would be an error in judgment. This letter is not intended as a criticism, but a statement of the facts as we view them in carrying out the idea of taking our case to the people.

"We, therefore, feel that the operation of the Third street school should not be suspended for the following reasons:

"First: To suspend one school for the purpose of creating or re-establishing a department in another is a

DAWES VISITS PITTSBURGH

Two Addresses on Program Before Trip to Wheeling.

By ALBERT BAENZINGER.
EN ROUTE WITH GENERAL DAWES IN PENNSYLVANIA, Oct. 22.—General Charles G. Dawes, vice presidential candidate, was en route to Pittsburgh today from Philadelphia, where he spoke last night. He will speak on the constitution at noon in the Harris theatre in Pittsburgh. Later he will deliver an address in Washington, Pa., before crossing into West Virginia, where tonight in Wheeling he will deliver his first speech in that state.

Dawes' friends said today that his Philadelphia speech was the greatest oratorical effort he has made thus far in the campaign. He went into details of the budget and surprised the audience by asserting that the law creating it was only an incident in its accomplishment and that the whole plan could have been put into effect without the budget law.

It said the reason that was not done before President Harding created him director of the budget, was that former presidents had not taken a position as head of the routine government business.

He warned against a change in administration in these words: "This government is safe in its present system of doing business. Just as long as the president of the United States keeps his position as head of the routine business organization."

"If you go making any rash experiments and changing the president when you have a good president in—a close president who watches the nickels—well, you look out."

Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission, will visit Wellsville on Saturday, Nov. 1. Places for all three rallies will be fixed at a meeting of the central and executive committees which will be held at Lisbon Friday evening.

A delegation of Democrats from this city will go to Salem Thursday evening to hear ex-United States Senator Thomas Gore of Oklahoma, who will speak at a rally in the high school auditorium. This will be Mr. Gore's only appearance in eastern Ohio during the present campaign.

penalty on the community losing its school.

"Second: It is not economy.

"Third: If suspended for economy without the re-establishing of the new department above referred to, the amount saved does not justify the change.

"Fourth: It is setting a bad precedent.

"Fifth: Children would be taken from a place of safety and sent into one of danger. The slightest injury to one child by reason of the proposed change would more than offset the savings of years.

"Sixth: If the school is suspended, tax valuations should be reduced in proportion to the loss.

"Seventh: A vacant school house is a step backward in the civic life of any community.

"This is our case and we submit it to you feeling assured it will receive your best consideration."

STRAIGHT-FROM-SHOULDER BLOWS BY EVANGELIST W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Unless he was an arrogant and consummate hypocrite or the victim of acute mental aberration Jesus was what his disciple, Thomas, said He was: his "Lord" and his "God" and consequently our own.

Next to finding out what you will do with Him the most important question in the world is: who was Jesus?

Deny the deity and divinity of Jesus Christ and you throw away the keystone of the arch of Christianity and the whole thing comes down with a crash.

To say that Jesus Christ was simply a good man with more divinity than any other man robs Him of His Saviourhood and strips Him of His power to redeem the human unit from sin.

Man is a religious animal and he simply cannot shake off his religious instincts.

As He died in His Palestine days Jesus Christ is still asking: "What do you think of Me? Who do men say that I am?"

Jesus Christ claimed His deity on the threefold ground of His divine knowledge, His divine power and His divine authority.

Every man has some good points but Jesus Christ had them all; and he had them all in absolute perfection.

Christ's own words alone would hardly make a vest pocket edition, but the books written about Him and His words would fill a thousand Congressional libraries.

The heights of Christ's words have never been scaled; their depths have never been sounded. To try to explain the marvelous transformations of character apart from the mighty working power of Jesus Christ is to do violence to reason, insult the memory of Godly men and pour contempt upon the name of the Christ who saved them.

Without Christ what will you do when the end comes?

Wonderful Counselor, the mighty God! the everlasting Father! the Prince of Peace—all these and more is the Christ.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The low priced railroad stocks continued to lead the forward movement in stock prices in the early trading on the stock exchange. Industrial and specialty stocks were strong in spots, particularly where as in the case of American hide and leather preferred, Mallory Sisk and Copper stocks, special developments were favorable to an appreciation in market value of stocks.

Special interest was displayed in Frisco common, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Rock Island, St. Paul common and preferred, Texas and Pacific, Katy, Missouri Pacific, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and other rails which are expected to benefit either through higher net earnings in the present year, or through amalgamation with other strong railroad systems in accordance with plans now being worked out.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis sold one point higher at 115. Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred was up two points at 231; Rock Island 1 at 341; Frisco common in new high territory at 371; Wabash common and preferred were near the top prices for the year. The St. Paul stocks also joined in the movement, with the preferred nearly two points higher at 211, while the common was up 1 at 121; Southern Railway was irregular.

Two Cities Ask Reason for Delay In Road Opening

The East Liverpool and the Wellsville Chambers of Commerce forwarded telegrams Wednesday to the federal road department, at Columbus, inquiring as to the cause of the delay in opening the East Liverpool-Wellsville road, known as inter-county highway No. 7, Section P.

At a meeting of the good roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday afternoon, it was announced that the road could not be opened until it had passed federal inspection. A telegram was forwarded W. M. Weber, senior highway engineer, U. S. department of agriculture, bureau of public roads, Columbus, urging that this highway be inspected immediately in order that it may be opened without further delay.

The county is now completing its work of erecting a guard fence along the fill near Brady's cut.

Earliest known English public swimming pool was advertised in London, May 28, 1742, to be open and that "waiters attend daily to teach or assist Gentlemen in the said Swimming Bath if required."

DARKNESS LOOMS NOV. 1 UNLESS CITY PAYS $11,868 LIGHT BILL

Street Lights Will be Turned Off if Solicitor Ingram Fails to Sell Deficiency Bonds to Liquidate Indebtedness.

Unless Solicitor George D. Ingram is able to sell deficiency bonds to raise municipal funds for general purposes, the city, on the first of the month, will lose every street light now in use from one end of the city to the other.

That was the understanding reached between representatives of the Ohio Power Co., which furnished electricity to the city, and members of city council who convened here Tuesday night.

Represented by Attorney W. H. Vordrey, the Ohio Power Co., through Manager Couch, called attention of council to the fact that the city now owes for electric current $11,868.33. It was also explained that in the period of a year only two payments, amounting to about $1,000, have been made in the light bill.

Members of council informed the power company representatives that funds with which to pay for the lights would not be forthcoming within the next two years.

Considering all these facts, neither council nor power company representatives could see any reason, they declared, why the company's contract, which expired on September 11, last month, should be renewed, unless Solicitor Ingram sells the bonds. This, declared Councilman Ewing, Mr. Ingram recently declared he could do, although no progress has yet been reported other than the announcement that a local bank has promised to take part of the proposed issue.

Solicitor Ingram was not present at Tuesday's meeting. As a result council decided to hold a special meeting on Wednesday, October 29. In the interim, Auditor Fred Eckfeld and city officials will confer with Mr. Ingram on the situation.

If it is not possible to sell the bonds, the Ohio Power company will institute "friendly action" in the courts against the city and obtain a judgment for the amount of the debt. And then on the first of the month, the lights will go out.

This is the procedure suggested by Attorney Vordrey in the event that it is impossible to raise money.

Shutting off the lights would mean the elimination of all arc and other street lights paid for by the city. The remainder of the city lighting system, such as furnishes power to manufacturing plants and lights to homes and offices, does not enter into the problem.

LIBRARY CLOSED; INGRAM BLAMED

That the forced closing of the Carnegie Library, which suspended on Monday, was blamed upon Solicitor George D. Ingram at Tuesday night's council meeting by City Auditor Fred Eckfeld.

Auditor Eckfeld presented the situation briefly to the solons, asserting that he hesitated to discuss the question fully as a result of the absence of Solicitor Ingram.

He declared he felt, however, that the condition should be presented in all its details and that some action is necessary.

He pointed out that more than two months ago council approved a resolution authorizing the transfer of $1,000 from the safety fund to the library fund, which is enough to meet the financial requirements of the institution for the year. The resolution, however, should have been approved by common pleas court before the transfer could be completed. The task, Auditor Eckfeld pointed out, was left to Solicitor Ingram.

The transfer has not been made, Auditor Eckfeld declared, and as a result, the library was forced to close its doors.

He also asserted that the proposed transfer of money from the safety to the service fund, authorized by council some time ago, has not yet been completed. He pointed out that $110

Made a Hit With Him

"My wife has taken your medicine and has been wonderfully benefited. For over four years she has had trouble with bloating and could scarcely eat any food because of this condition. Doctor's medicines did not help her and an operation was advised. Her brother, who is a druggist, sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped her at once. I cannot praise your medicine enough." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. is still owed to the municipal playground supervisor and her assistant. President Blackburn named Solons Ewing, Peters and Connor, and himself as a committee to confer with Solicitor Ingram as soon as possible.

HIGHS PREPARE FOR HARD GAME

With Fullback "Wally" Pignatore temporarily out of the game as a result of injuries sustained in the contest at Martins Ferry, and several others nursing bruises, Coach Carl Zimmerman will have his work cut out for him as he lines up the Wellsville High school squad for its engagement on Saturday with Bellaire. The contest is scheduled for Central park.

Pignatore received injuries to an ankle and it is not thought possible that he will recover in time to start in the Bellaire game.

Three hard games in a row are listed for the orange and black grid-derers with Bellaire first, Leetonia, second and Mingo Junction next.

Leetonia recently nosed out a victory over Salem High, the minimum margin of one point. The score was 7 to 6.

CITY MUST RAISE ROAD WORK FUND

The city of Wellsville must raise approximately $8,000 and place that amount with the county's $15,000, set aside for road construction here, before the county can let the contract for its share of the improvement of Wells avenue, Contractor George B. Patterson informed the solons Tuesday night.

The county, it was pointed out, can not award its contract unless the entire $23,000 is in sight. The city, it was pointed out, can obtain the money through assessment, but the assessments cannot be made until the work is done.

As a result of this problem, solons decided upon a conference with Solicitor Ingram to ascertain whether money can be borrowed from the special water fund. The money, it was pointed out, can be returned.

The county, Contractor Patterson asserted, points out that if the city can show progress on the Wells avenue work, it is possible that federal aid can be obtained for the improvement of the remainder of the Wellsville-East Liverpool road.

GRAFTON ATTENDS RAIL MEN'S MEET

J. J. Grafton, of Wellsville, a Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad division foreman, attended the council of Veterans association of the central region of the Pennsylvania held recently in Pittsburgh.

Twenty-five delegates from various sections of the region were in attendance. While the purpose of the conference was to formulate plans for producing solidarity in the veterans' ranks, other subjects were discussed.

As attested in the organization's constitution, its purpose is to promote and encourage the interests and activities of all Veterans Employees' associations of the Pennsylvania railroad system and especially those of the central region; to develop the tie of good fellowship existing among veteran employees; to provide a medium for the exchange of ideas and information of mutual interest to all associations.

Principal discussion centered around the proposed adoption of insignia that would indicate clearly that member was a veteran of the railroad system.

GRASSHOPPER ARMY MOVING

Hordes of Insect Pests Damage Crop Lands In Mexico.

MEXICO CITY.—One of the greatest and most devastating hordes of insect pests since Biblical days is now moving on the United States border. It is made up of the grasshopper, or "longosta," as it is called in Mexico. Until a few days ago it was believed by the Mexican entomologists that grasshoppers had been suppressed. Now they have reappeared at San Luis Potosi in greater numbers than ever. In their wake is an area of destruction that is amazing. Vast fields of sugar cane and corn that only a few days previously had been a mass of green, full plumage, have been stripped and resemble fields of pithy cigarettes.

Pastures where grass was knee-deep have been totally destroyed. Banana plants—in fact, everything green in the pests' way—have been preyed upon to feed the hungry billions. Some idea of the proportions of the insect invasion may be had by these facts. When they are in flight they literally obscure the sun. On railroad tracks they are so thick that it is necessary to clear them away with shovels before the trains may move. In many instances trains were unable to negotiate grades, because as fast as the pests were cleared away others came in, and it was impossible for the engine drivers to secure traction.

This mighty horde originated on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, probably one of the most luxuriant tropical jungles in the world. With abundant food, the grasshoppers multiplied amazingly. As they devoured the food there they started on their pilgrimage north and came as far as Vera Cruz, where they branched off and headed for Mexico City.

PREZZIA SEEKS FIRE INSURANCE

Charles Prezzia, local Italian resident, who at one time operated a grocery business at 514 Twelfth street, has filed an action in common pleas court at Lisbon to recover the face value of certain fire insurance policies which, he asserts, he had on his stock at the time his store was destroyed, he claims, by fire.

The insurance companies named as defendants are: the Westchester Fire Insurance Co., of New York; New Zealand Insurance Co., Ltd., of Auckland, N. Z.; Atlas Assurance Co., Ltd., of London, England.

Prezzia's store, stock and other belongings in his place of business were destroyed in the explosion and fire that demolished the place a year ago.

City. When within a few miles of the capital they veered again. Here begins a vast plateau. There is scant population and little vegetation, except at this time of the year, the end of the rainy season. It was believed they would die out here because of insufficient food to maintain them.

Their appearance at San Luis Potosi, well on the way to the border, and at the beginning of a new and fertile area, Mexican department of Agriculture officials declare, would make it seem certain that they will continue to the United States border and cross. It is believed that they go into the United States along the Gulf Coast, where there is ample vegetation even in the winter, and that unless some means of destroying them is found they will begin their pilgrimage to the grain regions of the West with the advent of spring.

The estimate of the damage wrought

by them here is placed at $20,000,000, but this is only an estimate, because of the difficulty of communication and the compilation of statistics. In addition to this the natives in the lowlands are attributing to them the spread of a particularly virulent tropical fever, a superstition, the authorities say, which they are having great difficulty in dissipating.

A new antiseptic has been discovered that is four times as powerful as Carbolic Acid.

It is much more powerful than bichloride of mercury. Yet it is so harmless that one can drink it and so mild in its action that it is a healthful wash for the most delicate membrane.

HIGHS PREPARE FOR HARD GAME

With Fullback "Wally" Pignatore temporarily out of the game as a result of injuries sustained in the contest at Martins Ferry, and several others nursing bruises, Coach Carl Zimmerman will have his work cut out for him as he lines up the Wellsville High school squad for its engagement on Saturday with Belleaire. The contest is scheduled for Central park.

Pignatore received injuries to an ankle and it is not thought possible that he will recover in time to start in the Belleaire game.

Three hard games in a row are listed for the Orange and Black grid-dons with Belleaire first, Leetonia, second and Mingo Junction next.

Leetonia recently nosed out a victory over Salem High, the minimum margin of one point. The score was 7 to 6.

CITY MUST RAISE ROAD WORK FUND

The city of Wellsville must raise approximately $8,000 and place that amount with the county's $15,000, set aside for road construction here, before the county can let the contract for its share of the improvement of Wells avenue, Contractor George B. Patterson informed the council Tuesday night.

The county, it was pointed out, can not award its contract unless the entire $22,000 is in sight. The city, it was pointed out, can obtain the money through assessment, but the assessments cannot be made until the work is done.

As a result of this problem, council decided upon a conference with Solicitor Ingram to ascertain whether money can be borrowed from the special water fund. The money, it was pointed out, can be returned.

The county, Contractor Patterson asserted, points out that if the city can show progress on the Wells avenue work, it is possible that federal aid can be obtained for the improvement of the remainder of the Wellsville-East Liverpool road.

GRAFTON ATTENDS RAIL MEN'S MEET

J. J. Grafton, of Wellsville, a Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad division foreman, attended the council of Veterans' association of the central region of the Pennsylvania held recently in Pittsburgh.

Twenty-five delegates from various sections of the region were in attendance. While the purpose of the conference was to formulate plans for producing solidarity in the veterans' ranks, other subjects were discussed.

As stipulated in the organization's constitution, its purpose is to promote and encourage the interests and activities of all Veterans' Employees' associations of the Pennsylvania railroad system and especially those of the central region; to develop the tie of good fellowship existing among veteran employees; to provide a medium for the exchange of ideas and information of mutual interest to all associations.

Principal discussion centered around the proposed adoption of insignia that would indicate clearly that member was a veteran of the railroad system.

GRASSHOPPER ARMY MOVING

Hordes of Insect Pests Damage Crop Lands In Mexico.

MEXICO CITY.—One of the greatest and most devastating hordes of insect pests since Biblical days is now moving on the United States border.

It is made up of the grasshopper, or "longosta," as it is called in Mexico. Until a few days ago it was believed by the Mexican entomologists that grasshoppers had been suppressed. Now they have reappeared at San Luis Potosi in greater numbers than ever. In their wake is an area of destruction that is amazing. Vast fields of sugar cane and corn that only a few days previously had been a mass of green, full plumage, have been stripped and resemble fields of pithy cigarettes.

Pastures where grass was knee-deep have been totally destroyed. Banana plants—in fact, everything green in the pests' way—have been preyed upon to feed the hungry billions. Some idea of the proportions of the insect invasion may be had by these facts. When they are in flight they literally obscure the sun. On railroad tracks they are so thick that it is necessary to clear them away with shovels before the trains may move. In many instances trains were unable to negotiate grades, because as fast as the pests were cleared away others came in, and it was impossible for the engine drivers to secure traction.

This mighty horde originated on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, probably one of the most luxuriant tropical jungles in the world. With abundant food, the grasshoppers multiplied amazingly. As they devoured the food there they started on their pilgrimage north and came as far as Vera Cruz, where they branched off and headed for Mexico City.

Their appearance at San Luis Potosi, well on the way to the border, and at the beginning of a new and fertile area, Mexican department of Agriculture officials declare, would make it seem certain that they will continue to the United States border and cross. It is believed that they go into the United States along the Gulf Coast, where there is ample vegetation even in the winter, and that unless some means of destroying them is found they will begin their pilgrimage to the grain regions of the West with the advent of spring.

City. When within a few miles of the capital they veered again. Here begins a vast plateau. There is scant population and little vegetation, except at this time of the year, the end of the rainy season. It was believed they would die out here because of insufficient food to maintain them.

The estimate of the damage wrought

by them here is placed at $20,000,000, but this is only an estimate, because of the difficulty of communication and the compilation of statistics. In addition to this the natives in the lowlands are attributing to them the spread of a particularly virulent tropical fever, a superstition, the authorities say, which they are having great difficulty in dissipating.

Election Duty and Jury Duty

Surprising apathy about election duties, among otherwise good citizens, is shown in a letter from an Ohio girl to a newspaper. She belongs to a Sunday school class with 100 young women in it, and an Epworth League with a membership of over 200. All of these, she says, are of voting age, and "the finest kind of folks." Yet when they were asked recently how many intended to register and vote, not one hand was raised.

Her sister attends a large business college. When there was a straw vote there the other night, not one person reported an intention to vote on election day. The writer explains:

"In all cases of my Sunday school class, Epworth League and others with whom I have talked, the same reason is given: We do not want to serve on the jury. I have a large acquaintance and I am telling you the truth when I tell you I do not know one soul that is going to vote.

"I have to earn a living and have heavy home responsibilities, and cannot afford to take a chance of being called to jury service. If girls go to jury service they have two weeks' work piled up when they get back; if men go they lose their pay and maybe their job.

"The working class cannot afford to vote. "I would vote if I knew I would be exempt from jury service. My brother would vote, but he is paid by the hour and all the rest of the men in his place are paid that way. My father is a salaried man, but his work would pile up sky high if he had to spend two weeks in jury service."

Here is a remarkable and shameful situation. It must be worse than usual in the community referred to, but it exists to some degree everywhere. There is an almost universal effort to dodge jury duty. That is bad; but the evil is doubled when it is combined with the shirking of election duty.

In some places this attitude is met by picking jurors from citizens' lists without regard to registration for voting. That robs non-voters of this excuse.

Intelligent citizens are needed on juries more, if possible, than at the polls. Something will have to be done about that, if the jury system is not to break down. Jurors' pay might be raised. Employers might be penalized for failing to co-operate with employees called for jury work. Or it may be that we shall have to develop professional juries.

In the meantime, all that can be done is to labor with indifferent or timorous citizens to take a little flyer in patriotism on Nov. 4, and hope for the best.

Church Membership

The Rev. Charles L. Goodell, secretary of the evangelism committee of the federal council of churches of Christ in America, is not impressed by current arguments about the decadence of the church. He says that critics who sneer about only 40 per cent of the people being affiliated with the Christian church, and only a few of those believing sincerely in the church tenets, do not know what they are talking about.

Figures compiled by the federal council last April, he says, show that the Christian churches in this country, Protestant and Catholic, have over 45,000,000 communicants. But this, he insists, does not show the real numerical strength of the church. He argues that the Protestant denominations, in order to marshal all their affiliated population, as the Roman Catholics do, should multiply their reported total of communicants by two and one-half. If this were done, he says, it would show that altogether there are over 100,000,000 people affiliated with our Christian churches.

The secretary is doubtless right in the general view that the Christian church is a greater force in America than many persons realize. A religious group of 100,000,000 people to whom their religion is a vital force should be a tremendous factor in the national life.

In Alabama a man awakened after four months of sleeping sickness. We'll bet his first words were: "Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood."—Wichita (Kansas) Beacon.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

WIRELESS POWER

Many years ago this writer suggested that the flying problem would be solved by transmission of electric power without wires. Power stations at Niagara Falls and other points, would supply the power, and machines flying above, would "pick it up."

Now Edison, who exhibited his first incandescent electric light just 45 years ago, predicts the age of "power transmission by wireless. When that comes, you may see gigantic flying machines going around the world year after year, six miles up, where no strong winds blow, rarely landing, carrying small planes to drop passengers at New York, San Francisco, Honolulu, Manila and so on, all the way around."

How fast we travel along the road of science.

Forty-five years ago Edison's first incandescent lamp shed its feeble light. The other night, flyers practicing in the dark on Long Island, sailed down to the ground, following the shining ray of a searchlight with more than a million candle-power, slanting at the right angle and safely guiding them to the ground.

Soon light will be almost as cheap as darkness. Every street and highway in the country will be lighted as thoroughly as the main traffic of great cities.

Crime will vanish under light, as disease germs wilt under sunlight and there will be no "lost hours." Machines will be grinding out their wealth 24 hours a day, with men in three shifts of eight hours, "or better, four shifts of six hours" superintending the production.

EXIT MRS. WILLOW

Mrs. Willow, widow, aged 39, appeared before a jury accused of ordering her young admirer, Shadel, aged 18, to kill her husband.

The jury finds her guilty of murder in the second degree, but Mrs. Willow could not possibly be guilty of murder in the second degree. If she planned the murder and ordered Shadel to carry it out, that was premeditated murder, and therefore murder in the first degree, is she didn't plan the murder, she was not guilty at all. Perhaps the jury acted on the theory that something ought to be done about the fact that the lady's morals left something to be desired. Or it might have been chivalrous reluctance to hang a lady.

WILL LABOR STICK?

"Criticism is easy, art is difficult." MacDonald, Labor prime minister of the British empire, discovers in his turn the truth of the old saying.

It is easy to put a new "Utopia" with happiness and plenty for everybody on paper, or in a speech. But doing the thing when power comes is different. Lloyd George attacks MacDonald, saying the Labor party promised to find jobs for everybody, and goes out of office with unemployment greater than when Labor entered office.

Lloyd George attacks MacDonald and Labor also for lending money to Bolshevik Russia. But Lloyd George, only the other day promising the British that he "would hang the kaiser," now favors lending hundreds of millions to Germany. England wants to do business with Russia. Why attack MacDonald for trying to make it possible?

BRITAIN DEMOCRATIC

The British elections will answer an old question. "No workmen ever stick together?" In this country politicians answer "No." England, very likely, will answer otherwise.

Great Britain takes woman suffrage more seriously than it is taken here, where we allow them to vote but, apparently, don't think much of them in public office.

Forty-one women are candidates for parliament in this election. They include "noble women" with assorted titles, one lady formerly a domestic servant, and one stenographer. Whatever you think about the British, you must admit that they possess a genuine brand of democracy.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The possibility exists that the Bigtree, technically known as Sequoia Washingtonia, whose history dates back to a period considerably pre-Adam, and now found only in isolated and sheltered spots in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, may furnish the solution of the problem of reforesting the state's rapidly diminishing preserves.

During the last thousand years this particular species of Bigtree has not reproduced appreciably, and at one time foresters believed it was a dying species. Results obtained, however, from recent attempt to start plantations of the tree throughout California, outside its present range, have caused the expert to wonder whether the Bigtree may not some day reforest large areas of the state.

Small plantations have been made in the Klamath national forest, in the northwest corner of the state, near Lake Tahoe, in the central part, and in the Sequoia national forest, in the Southern Sierras. In each of these localities the tree has far outstripped the native conifers. Even in competition with brush, which suppresses young pines and firs severely, the Bigtree has been able to develop successfully. In the 12-year period since the earlier of these plantings some of the young trees have made a growth of eight feet, against four or five feet as the best that local saplings have attained.

The history of this tree reaches back into the very beginning of history, according to experts of the United States forest service, to a period when the Sequoia Washingtonia probably covered the slopes of western coast mountains twice the height of present ranges and extended from some point well north of 49 degrees down into the lower California peninsula.

Literary fulfillment of the biblical prophecy that the valleys shall be exalted and the mountains made low some, seems before it was uttered by Isaiah, is the probable cause of its present limited range, a strange geological transformation that some hundreds of centuries ago came over what is now California having been a decided factor in the change.

In the high mountain ranges of those days, running up to 20,000 feet or more in height, came a volcanic disturbance, so that molten lava poured through the valleys and "stream channels," filling them up and blocking the streams. After the lava had cooled it was so much harder than the granite of the original mountains that it resisted erosion as the granite could not. As a consequence, the granite peaks were away, and the lava beds remained until, finally, lava-covered ridges, and streams deep canyons worn in the native stone, and streams flowed, and still flow, many thousand feet below the level of the streams once shaded by the Bigtree's grandfathers.

Not long ago miners in the Tahoe national forest—working a gold mine 2,500 or 3,000 feet below the lava cap of one of the Sierra peaks, in one of the former streambeds—came across an old flood deposit in which were the tangled legs of a group of the Sequoias that once grew on the mountain slopes. Though buried in excellent preservation. They were changed somewhat in structure, but the annual rings in a cross-section of the wood stood out as plainly as though the trees had been felled only a few days before.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—There is in New York a social clan known as the "Long Island set." They are the veranda boys and the athletic girls. The men have ambitions to be master of hounds and expert cross country riders. They also go in for polo.

The women are tanned and masculine appearing. The older men are the horse Scotch whisky types with beefy jaws, beady eyes and given to cologne. Most of the younger fellows hold mediocre banking jobs downtown that do not interfere with their pleasures.

It is a crowd that goes the pace. They can stand it better because of their outdoor life. The older women are the imperious types who have at some time or other secured week-end Paris divorces and prefer the company of young men with crinkling brown hair and white flannels.

There have been several nasty scandal shootings among them. The girls are the kind from whom the men can borrow cigarettes and who substitute the highball for afternoon tea. All of them are silk stockinged aristocrats living hard and dangerously.

Many of the young men are social pickpockets who on account of their good looks are accepted. They play polo on borrowed mounts and flatter the older women. In this fashion they are able to flit from Narragansett to Del Monte.

All of them provide salacious material for the gossip weeklies and seem to enjoy it. At the dazzling ocean-side cafes they are flawless dancers. Youths who should be seeking a career become the thin, whippy types with tightly waxed mustaches.

The week ends are hectic. The festivities begin on Friday evening with a lot of cocktails and them away in roadsters to make the rounds of other summer porches. Some to them never think of sleeping until early Sunday morning.

A strange mood now and then dominates the Bowery. There will be a day when the Bowery remains in doors. The street seems to be sulking. Not even the children come out. It may be a sunshiny day, but when the Bowery is in a mood nothing tempts it. Even shopkeepers are sullen when trade comes. It wants to be left alone with its sorrow.

One of the amazing things about the Bowery is the way children defy death in the streets. They race in front of street cars, trucks and automobiles after balls with no fear whatever and their parents look on as though unmindful of the fate that may be theirs. Of course, the street is the only place they have to play. Long experience has made them agile, and while they take greater hazards there are few street accidents there than in other sections.

A magazine editor who had an apartment in town moved to Greenwich for the summer taking his servants, a man and wife, who acted as butler and cook. Two weeks afterward he was forced to discharge the servants. He returned to his city apartment the other day for some wearing apparel and found the servants had been living there for two months and, not only that, they had been entertaining some friends.

My obedience toward servants is greater than theirs toward employers. I always want to shake hands with a butler and if I had found them occupying my apartment, no matter how angry it had made me, I think I would have invited them to stay awhile longer.

DINNER STORIES

Bert met his old friend Bill the Burglar in a public house, and over a pint of the best the two got chatting about things in general.

"I hear you've left your wife," remarked Bert presently. "Why did you do that?"

"Because she was always wantin' me to do something," snarled the burglar moodily.

"What do you mean?" asked his friend.

"No matter how busy or tired I was, she was always naggin' me to do somethin' for her. At last, one night, it was too much."

"How was that?" said the other, interested.

"Well, I came in about 3 o'clock in the mornin'," explained Bill, "all worn out from doing too much work. I had opened two strong boxes and finished up by forcing a couple of safes, to say nothing of a vault I cracked earlier in the evening. An' then, when I got in, what do you suppose that woman wanted me to do?"

"What?"

"As I stand here, it's true!" growled Bill the Burglar. "She wanted me to open a box of sardines for her."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

VOTERS ARE BEING AROUSED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22.—A safe prediction for the approaching election is that there will be decidedly more voters than in 1920. The day mean that a larger proportion of voters is taking its balloting duties seriously. Or, it may mean that the contest is sufficiently exciting to arouse even apathetic, stay-at-home voters. At any rate, there is no doubt that the League of Women Voters and other organizations have been crusading strenuously to get 75 per cent of the possible voting strength to the polls November 4, and early returns indicate that the voting figures may exceed that percentage.

A presidential election is always considered an event of national interest, and yet, if the number of popular votes cast means anything less than last year, the country was actively interested in the last big contest. Only 49 per cent of the eligible voters took part in the selection of President Harding. The other 51 per cent—or more than 25,000,000 eligible voters—failed to cast their ballots.

There are plenty of more startling election figures for those who care for statistics. Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, was elected by the vote of 38.8 per cent of Pennsylvania's qualified voters. Senator Reed, of the same state, was elected by 18.5 per cent. In 1923, 33 states elected governors, and only about one-third of the voters took part in making the selections.

Amendments to state constitutions have been passed by as few as 8 per cent of the voters.

Such figures can only be interpreted to mean that the country is ruled by the minority. In some elections the result might be the same if the stay-at-homes had voted, but in other elections the voters might have changed the course of history, especially in local contests. In any case, the United States is often numerous enough to hold the balance of power.

Most of the people who stay away from the polls do so through indifference. They have never realized any vivid way the old truism that their ballots are their only real hold on the government. This type of voter sees no use in casting his vote if his favored candidate is likely to win, and he thinks it hopeless to vote if the man he prefers apparently has no chance of success.

BIG SLUMP IN RECENT YEARS

Probably very few people realize how interest in voting slumped in the 50 years preceding 1920. We think of ourselves today as being far more closely in touch with national affairs than the people of the seventies. Our system of communication is a marvel of efficiency. Newspapers, moving picture news reels, magazine articles and the radio make the political nominees familiar figures. First trains enable speakers to reach personally many more voters than in the dim and distant seventies.

All of these modern factors figured in the 1920 presidential election, except radio. And yet, about 64 per cent of the voters took part in the 1870 election. In 1900, the 1920 election broke the record for the smallest vote, so far as the percentage of voters is concerned.

Miss Julia Lathrop sees a fine precedent in the first election held in western New York. There were 154 qualified voters in the county, she says, and all but nine came over rough roads or through unbroken country to vote at Buffalo. The election seemed so important to 94 per cent of the voters that they made whatever sacrifices were necessary in order to cast their ballots.

This spirit has not been conspicuous in elections for some years. This year, however, there are signs that indicate that it may be gradually coming back. Mrs. Ann Webster, of the League of Women Voters, tells a story of three well-dressed women who sat near her at luncheon in New York City who had spent the entire morning trying to register in order to vote, and it seemed to them that life was made pretty hard for the would-be voter. They had been directed from one section of the city to another, and they had walked at least a mile about the streets.

"And you didn't give up?" asked Mrs. Webster.

"Oh, no," they said. "Of course, we want to vote."

The campaign to get out at least 75 per cent of the voters on election day was started by the League of Women Voters in 1922. The league had taken upon itself the task of helping the new women voters to vote intelligently. Attacking the problem from an unpartisan standpoint, the league was busy supplying women with all sorts of political information, when it was discovered that possibly 50 per cent of the women voters, like 50 per cent of the men voters, were not aroused to the importance of casting a ballot and having a share in the administration of the government. The league began at once to stir up the indifferent women voters, and, if possible, some of the indifferent men voters, too, and now political workers of all sorts are on the trail of the unused ballot.

NOVEL PUBLICITY STUNTS

The league has sponsored clever publicity ideas to attract voters and to show them exactly how to proceed. The idea of putting tags on milk bottles of an entire city on registration day, in order to remind the people to register, has proved popular.

This year, one of the stunts tried in Pennsylvania was the tagging of school children. Each child was given a large red circular tag to wear. Attached to the red circle was a small white flap, bearing the question, "Will your parents vote on November 4?" The child was supposed to consult his parents, and if possible to wear the tag with the flap torn off, showing the answer to the question. "Yes, they will."

In Toledo, restaurant waitresses were asked to remind patrons of their registration duties at that important morning.

Politics even invaded a number of county fairs this year and the booth where information could be obtained regarding registration procedure proved an attraction which could hold its own against the merry-go-round, the races, and the prize vegetables. In a Nebraska town, 12,000 people were entertained between sporting events by small boy "sandwich men" wearing signs about voting.

Encouraging returns from the campaign to "get out the vote" have been coming in ever since the primaries.

In the Illinois primaries the vote was 30.7 per cent larger than in 1920. In Minnesota there was a 27 per cent increase. West Virginia, with a favorite son in the field, is taking a strong interest in the coming election, and the primaries showed a 65 per cent increase in voters over 1920. The Ohio primaries show an increase of 63 per cent. This is especially significant of the growing interest in voting because of the fact that in 1920 Ohio had two of its own sons running for president.

Maine holds the record for the greatest increase in the primary vote, however—77 per cent. Other states are reporting increases of from 20 per cent up. As the primary returns are always less than the election day vote, the outlook for a record-breaking vote—and not a low record, like that of 1920—is regarded as good.

A man was in the habit of attending meetings which often detained him after the usual hour of retirement. One chilly night he was very late and his wife, after fretting herself into a temper, went to bed, determined not to come down again.

When she had been upstairs about ten minutes she heard a knock, so putting her head out the window she said: "Is that you, Jim?"

"Yes, Meg. Come and open the door."

"What has kept you so late?" said the wife.

"We were discussing the great benefit of fresh air for the poor," said Jim.

"Well," said his better half, "you can lecture tomorrow night from experience," and the window went down with a bang.

Election Duty and Jury Duty

Surprising apathy about election duties, among otherwise good citizens, is shown in a letter from an Ohio girl to a newspaper. She belongs to a Sunday school class with 100 young women in it, and an Epworth League with a membership of over 200. All of these, she says, are of voting age, and "the finest kind of folks." Yet when they were asked recently how many intended to register and vote, not one hand was raised.

Her sister attends a large business college. When there was a straw vote there the other night, not one person reported an intention to vote on election day. The writer explains:

"In all cases of my Sunday school class, Epworth League and others with whom I have talked, the same reason is given: We do not want to serve on the jury. I have a large acquaintance and I am telling you the truth when I tell you I do not know one soul that is going to vote.

"I have to earn a living and have heavy home responsibilities, and cannot afford to take a chance of being called to jury service. If girls go to jury service they have two weeks' work piled up when they get back; if men go they lose their pay and maybe their job.

"The working class cannot afford to vote. I would vote if I knew I would be exempt from jury service. My brother would vote, but he is paid by the hour and all the rest of the men in his place are paid that way. My father is a salaried man, but his work would pile up sky high if he had to spend two weeks in jury service."

Here is a remarkable and shameful situation. It must be worse than usual in the community referred to, but it exists to some degree everywhere. There is an almost universal effort to dodge jury duty. That is bad; but the evil is doubled when it is combined with the shirking of election duty.

In some places this attitude is met by picking jurors from citizens' lists without regard to registration for voting. That robs non-voters of this excuse.

Intelligent citizens are needed on juries more, if possible, than at the polls. Something will have to be done about that, if the jury system is not to break down. Jurors' pay might be raised. Employers might be penalized for failing to co-operate with employees called for jury work. Or it may be that we shall have to develop professional juries.

In the meantime, all that can be done is to labor with indifferent or timorous citizens to take a little flyer in patriotism on Nov. 4, and hope for the best.

Church Membership

The Rev. Charles L. Goodell, secretary of the evangelism committee of the federal council of churches of Christ in America, is not impressed by current arguments about the decadence of the church. He says that critics who sneer about only 40 per cent of the people being affiliated with the Christian church, and only a few of those believing sincerely in the church tenets, do not know what they are talking about.

Figures compiled by the federal council last April, he says, show that the Christian churches in this country, Protestant and Catholic, have over 45,000,000 communicants. But this, he insists, does not show the real numerical strength of the church. He argues that the Protestant denominations, in order to marshal all their affiliated population, as the Roman Catholics do, should multiply their reported total of communicants by two and one-half. If this were done, he says, it would show that altogether there are over 100,000,000 people affiliated with our Christian churches.

The secretary is doubtless right in the general view that the Christian church is a greater force in America than many persons realize. A religious group of 100,000,000 people to whom their religion is a vital force should be a tremendous factor in the national life.

In Alabama a man awakened after four months of sleeping sickness. He bet his first words were: "Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar W. Underwood."—Wichita (Kansas) Beacon.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

WIRELESS POWER

Many years ago this writer suggested that the flying problem would be solved by transmission of electric power without wires. Power stations at Niagara Falls and other points, would supply the power, and machines flying above, would "pick it up."

Now Edison, who exhibited his first incandescent electric light just 45 years ago, predicts the age of "power transmission by wireless. When that comes, you may see gigantic flying machines going around the world year after year, six miles up, where no strong winds blow, rarely landing, carrying small planes to drop passengers at New York, San Francisco, Honolulu, Manila and so on, all the way around."

How fast we travel along the road of science.

Forty-five years ago Edison's first incandescent lamp shed its feeble light. The other night, flyers practicing in the dark on Long Island, sailed down to the ground, following the shining ray of a searchlight with more than a million candle-power, slanting at the right angle and safely guiding them to the ground.

Soon light will be almost as cheap as darkness. Every street and highway in the country will be lighted as thoroughly as the main traffic of great cities.

Crime will vanish under light, as disease germs wilt under sunlight and there will be no "lost hours." Machines will be grinding out their wealth 24 hours a day, with men in three shifts of eight hours, "or better, four shifts of six hours" superintending the production.

EXIT MRS. WILLOW

Mrs. Willow, widow, aged 39, appeared before a jury accused of ordering her young admirer, Shadel, aged 18, to kill her husband.

The jury finds her guilty of murder in the second degree, but Mrs. Willow could not possibly be guilty of murder in the second degree. If she planned the murder and ordered Shadel to carry it out, that was premeditated murder, and therefore murder in the first degree, is she didn't plan the murder, she was not guilty at all. Perhaps the jury acted on the theory that something ought to be done about the fact that the lady's morals left something to be desired. Or it might have been chivalrous reluctance to hang a lady.

WILL LABOR STICK?

"Criticism is easy, art is difficult." MacDonald, Labor prime minister of the British empire, discovers in his turn the truth of the old saying.

It is easy to put a new "Utopia" with happiness and plenty for everybody on paper, or in a speech. But doing the thing when power comes is different. Lloyd George attacks MacDonald, saying the Labor party promised to find jobs for everybody, and goes out of office with unemployment greater than when Labor entered office.

Lloyd George attacks MacDonald and Labor also for lending money to Bolshevik Russia. But Lloyd George, only the other day promising the British that he "would hang the Kaiser," now favors lending hundreds of millions to Germany. England wants to do business with Russia. Why attack MacDonald for trying to make it possible?

BRITAIN DEMOCRATIC

The British elections will answer an old question. "No workmen ever stick together?" In this country politicians answer "No." England, very likely, will answer otherwise.

Great Britain takes woman suffrage more seriously than it is taken here, where we allow them to vote but, apparently, don't think much of them in public office.

Forty-one women are candidates for parliament in this election. They include "noble women," with assorted titles, one lady formerly a domestic servant, and one stenographer. Whatever you think about the British, you must admit that they possess a genuine brand of democracy.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The possibility exists that the Bigtree, technically known as Sequoia Washingtonia, whose history dates back to a period considerably pre-Adam, and now found only in isolated and sheltered spots in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, may furnish the solution of the problem of reforesting the state's rapidly diminishing preserves.

During the last thousand years this particular species of Bigtree has not reproduced appreciably, and at one time foresters believed it was a dying species. Results obtained, however, from recent attempts to start plantations of the tree throughout California, outside its present range, have caused the expert to wonder whether the Bigtree may not someday reforest large areas of the state.

Small plantations have been made in the Klamath national forest, in the northwest corner of the state, near Lake Tahoe, in the central part, and in the Sequoia national forest, in the Southern Sierras. In each of these localities the tree has far outstripped the native conifers. Even in competition with brush, which suppresses young pines and firs severely, the Bigtree has been able to develop successfully. In the 12-year period since the earlier of these plantings some of the young trees have made a growth of eight feet, against four or five feet as the best that local saplings have attained.

The history of this tree reaches back into the very beginning of history, according to experts of the United States forest service, to a period when the Sequoia Washingtonia probably covered the slopes of western coast mountains twice the height of present ranges and extended from some point well north of 49 degrees down into the lower California peninsula.

Literary fulfillment of the biblical prophecy that the valleys shall be exalted and the mountains made low some aeons before it was uttered by Isaiah, is the probable cause of its present limited range, a strange geological transformation that some hundreds of centuries ago came over what is now California having been a decided factor in the change.

In the high mountain ranges of those days, running up to 20,000 feet or more in height, came a volcanic disturbance, so that molten lava poured through the valleys and stream channels, filling them up and blocking the streams. After the lava had cooled it was so much harder than the granite of the original mountains that it resisted erosion as the granite could not. As a consequence, the granite peaks were away, and the lava beds remained until, finally, lava-covered ridges towered above deep canyons worn in the native stone, and streams flowed, and still flow, many thousand feet below the level of the streams once shaded by the Bigtree's grandfathers.

Not long ago miners in the Tahoe national forest—working a gold mine 2,500 or 3,000 feet below the lava cap of one of the Sierra peaks. In one of the former streambeds—came across an old flood deposit in which were the tangled legs of a group of the Sequoias that once grew on the mountain slopes. Though buried for unknown thousands of years, the legs were in excellent preservation. They were changed somewhat in structure, but the annual rings in a cross-section of the wood stood out as plainly as though the trees had been felled only a few days before.

WHO'S WHO

MORTIMER E. COOLEY.

The man who is seeking the senatorial seat from Michigan, now occupied by Senator James Couzens, is Mortimer E. Cooley, dean of the engineering school of Michigan university.

Cooley is a Democrat. He has been connected with the engineering college since 1883, when he became a member of the faculty. He was named dean in 1904, and in 1913 was made dean also of the college of architecture at Ann Arbor.

He is a graduate of the U. S. naval academy, class of 1878. He saw service in the navy on the cruise of the Mediterranean in 1879, and the Atlantic coast the following year. He served in the bureau of steam engineering and then as chief engineer of the U. S. S. Yosemite during the Spanish-American war.

His services have been in demand for the past 20 years to conduct and direct the appraisal of scores of public utility corporations in all parts of the country. He was born in Canadigua, N. Y., March 28, 1855.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—There is in New York a social clan known as the "Long Island set." They are the veranda boys and the athletic girls. The men have ambitions to be master of hounds and expert cross country riders. They also go in for polo.

The women are tanned and masculine appearing. The older men are the horse Scotch whisky types with beefy jaws, beady eyes and given to cologne. Most of the younger fellows hold mediocre banking jobs downtown that do not interfere with their pleasures.

It is a crowd that goes the pace. They can stand it better because of their outdoor life. The older women are the imperious types who have at some time or other secured week-end Paris divorces and prefer the company of young men with crinkling brown hair and white flannels.

There have been several nasty scandal shootings among them. The girls are the kind from whom the men can borrow cigarettes and who substitute the highball for afternoon tea. All of them are silk stockinged aristocrats living hard and dangerously.

Many of the young men are social pickpockets who on account of their good looks are accepted. They play polo on borrowed mounts and flatter the older women. In this fashion they are able to flit from Narragansett to Del Monte.

All of them provide salacious material for the gossip weeklies and seem to enjoy it. At the dazzling ocean-side cafes they are flawless dancers. Youths who should be seeking a career become the thin, whippy types with tightly waxed mustaches.

The week ends are hectic. The festivities begin on Friday evening with a lot of cocktails and then away in roadsters to make the rounds of other summer porches. Some to them never think of sleeping until early Sunday morning.

A strange mood now and then dominates the Bowery. There will be a day when the Bowery remains in doors. The street seems to be sulking. Not even the children come out. It may be a sunshiny day, but when the Bowery is in a mood nothing tempts it. Even shopkeepers are sullen when trade comes. It wants to be left alone with its sorrow.

One of the amazing things about the Bowery is the way children defy death in the streets. They race in front of street cars, trucks and automobiles after balls with no fear whatever and their parents look on as though unmindful of the fate that may be theirs. Of course, the street is the only place they have to play. Long experience has made them agile, and while they take greater hazards there are few street accidents there than in other sections.

A magazine editor who had an apartment in town moved to Greenwich for the summer taking his servants, a man and wife, who acted as butler and cook. Two weeks afterward he was forced to discharge the servants. He returned to his city apartment the other day for some wearing apparel and found the servants had been living there for two months and, not only that, they had been entertaining some friends.

My obedience toward servants is greater than theirs toward employers. I always want to shake hands with a butler and if I had found them occupying my apartment, no matter how angry it had made me, I think I would have invited them to stay awhile longer.

DINNER STORIES

Bert met his old friend Bill the Burglar in a public house, and over a pint of the best the two got chatting about things in general. "I hear you've left your wife," remarked Bert presently. "Why did you do that?"

"Because she was always wantin' me to do something," snarled the burglar moodily.

"What do you mean?" asked his friend.

"No matter how busy or tired I was, she was always naggin' me to do somethin' for her. At last, one night, it was too much."

"How was that?" said the other, interested.

"Well, I came in about 3 o'clock in the morning," explained Bill, "all worn out from doing too much work. I had opened two strong boxes and finished up by forcing a couple of safes, to say nothing of a vault I cracked earlier in the evening. An' then, when I got in, what do you suppose that woman wanted me to do?"

"What?"

"As I stand here, it's true!" growled Bill the Burglar. "She wanted me to open a box of sardines for her."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

VOTERS ARE BEING AROUSED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 22.—A safe prediction for the approaching election is that there will be decidedly more voters than in 1920. That may mean that a larger proportion of voters is taking the balloting duties seriously. Or, it may mean that the contest is sufficiently exciting to arouse even apathetic, stay-at-home voters. At any rate, there is no doubt that the League of Women Voters and other organizations have been crusading strenuously to get 75 per cent of the possible voting strength to the polls November 4, and early returns indicate that the voting figures may exceed that percentage.

A presidential election is always considered an event of national interest, and yet, if the number of popular votes cast means anything less than half the country was actively interested in the last big contest. Only 49 per cent of the eligible voters took part in the selection of President Harding. The other 51 per cent—or more than 25,000,000 eligible voters—failed to cast their ballots.

There are plenty of more startling election figures for those who care for statistics. Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, was elected by the vote of 88 per cent of Pennsylvania's qualified voters. Senator Reed, of the same state, was elected by 85 per cent. In 1923, 33 states elected governors, and only about one-third of the voters took part in making the selections.

Amendments to state constitutions have been passed by as few as 8 per cent of the voters.

Such figures can only be interpreted to mean that the country is ruled by the minority. In some elections the result might be the same if the stay-at-homes had voted, but in other elections the non-voters might have changed the course of history, especially in local contests. In any case, the uncast ballots are often numerous enough to hold the balance of power.

Most of the people who stay away from the polls do so through indifference. They have never realized any vivid way the old truism that their ballots are their only real hold on the government. This type of voter sees no use in casting his vote if his favored candidate is likely to win, and he thinks it hopeless to vote if the man he prefers apparently has no chance of success.

BIG SLUMP IN RECENT YEARS

Probably very few people realize how interest in voting slumped in the 50 years preceding 1920. We think of ourselves today as being far more closely in touch with national affairs than the people of the seventies. Our system of communication is a marvel of efficiency. Newspapers, moving pictures, news reels, magazine articles and the radio make the political nominees familiar figures. First trains enable speakers to reach personally many more voters than in the dim and distant seventies.

All of these modern factors figured in the 1920 presidential election, except radio. And yet, about 64 per cent of the voters took part in the 1870 election, whereas, the 1920 election broke the record for the smallest vote, so far as the percentage of voters is concerned.

Miss Julia Lathrop sees a fine precedent in the first election held in western New York. There were 154 qualified voters in the county, she says, and all but nine came over rough roads or through unbroken country to vote at Buffalo. The election seemed so important to 94 per cent of the voters that they made whatever sacrifices were necessary in order to cast their ballots.

This spirit has not been conspicuous in elections for some years. This year, however, there are signs that indicate that it may be gradually coming back. Mrs. Ann Webster, of the League of Women Voters, tells a story of three well-dressed women who sat near her at luncheon in New York City. They had spent the entire morning trying to register in order to vote, and it seemed to them that life was made pretty hard for the would-be voter. They had been directed from one section of the city to another, and they had walked at least a mile about the streets.

"And you didn't give up?" asked Mrs. Webster.

"Oh, no," they said. "Of course, we want to vote."

The campaign to get out at least 75 per cent of the voters on election day was started by the League of Women Voters in 1922. The league had taken upon itself the task of helping the new women voters to vote intelligently. Attacking the problem from an unpartisan standpoint, the league was busy supplying women with all sorts of political information, when it was discovered that possibly 50 per cent of the women voters, like 50 per cent of the men voters, were not among the importance of casting a ballot and having a share in the administration of the government. The league began at once to stir up the indifferent women voters, and, if possible, some of the indifferent men voters, too, and now political workers of all sorts are on the trail of the unused ballot.

NOVEL PUBLICITY STUNTS

The league has sponsored clever publicity ideas to attract voters and to show them exactly how to proceed. The idea of putting tags on milk bottles of an entire city on registration day, in order to remind the people to register, has proved popular.

This year, one of the stunts tried in Pennsylvania was the tagging of school children. Each child was given a large red circular tag to wear. Attached to the red circle was a small white flap, bearing the question, "Will your parents vote on November 4?" The child was supposed to consult his parents, and if possible to wear the tag with the flap torn off, showing the answer to the question. "Yes, they will."

In Toledo, restaurant waitresses were asked to remind patrons of their registration duties and that important morning.

Politicians even invaded a number of county fairs this year and the booth where information could be obtained regarding registration procedure proved an attraction which could hold its own against the merry-go-round, the races, and the prize vegetables. In a Nebraska town, 12,000 people were entertained between sporting events by small boy "sandwich men" wearing signs about voting.

Encouraging returns from the campaign to "get out the vote" have been coming in ever since the primaries.

In the Illinois primaries the vote was 30.7 per cent larger than in 1920. In Minnesota there was a 27 per cent increase. West Virginia, with a favorite son in the field, is taking a strong interest in the coming election, and the primaries showed a 65 per cent increase in voters over 1920. The Ohio primaries show an increase of 63 per cent. This is especially significant of the growing interest in voting because of the fact that in 1920 Ohio had two of its own sons running for president.

Maine holds the record for the greatest increase in the primary vote, however—77 per cent. Other states are reporting increases of from 20 per cent up. As the primary returns are always less than the election day vote, the outlook for a record breaking vote—and not a low record, like that of 1920—is regarded as good.

Miss Helen A. Travis Becomes Bride of Jesse W. Calhoun

Pretty Ceremony is Solemnized in Home of Mrs. Rachel Herbert of Highland Colony at Noon Wednesday.

In the presence of 30 friends and relatives Miss Helen Aken Travis, daughter of Attorney George Y. Travis of Avondale street, became the bride of Attorney Jesse W. Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Calhoun of West Plains, Mo. The impressive ring ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms and ferns, at noon Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Rachel Herbert of Highland Colony.

The bride was given in ecru satin, and wore a corsage of white roses and lilies of the valley. She is a graduate of the East Liverpool High school with the class of '15, and also of Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. Miss Esther Leva, bride's maid, wore a gown of tan Canton crepe, with a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom, who was attended by an uncle of the bride, John C. Travis, of Greensburg, Pa., is the senior member of Calhoun and Bush, attorneys-at-law, practicing in Kokomo, Ind. He graduated from the law school at Valparaiso University with the class of 1916. He is a veteran of the World War, serving as second lieutenant with the 339th Infantry in North Russia.

A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. Pink roses attractively surrounded the large wedding cake, with a color scheme of pink and white predominating throughout the appointments. Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun will leave Wednesday evening for a honeymoon trip to Indianapolis, Ind. They will make their future home in Kokomo, Ind.

Millworker Finds Quick Relief

American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., employee declares "VENDOL" built him up and promptly overcame stomach and liver troubles.

All the clerks at Mathews Medicine Store where the Vendol Specialist is now making his headquarters are enthusiastic over Vendol for every day some of the customers come in and tell how this fine plant and herb tonic has quickly relieved headaches, indigestion, gassy stomach, nausea, dizziness, bad breath or some other trouble caused by a disordered digestive system. Many even report complete relief from backache and rheumatism.

MR. F. E. WILLIAMS.

Mr. F. E. Williams, R. D. No. 2, Wellsboro, O., was in several days ago and gladly gave permission to publish his experience in the paper. He says:

"Vendol's quick action surely surprised me for I had expected to take a number of bottles before noting any great benefits. However, just one bottle has built me up wonderfully and completely relieved constipation and liver troubles which brought on these terrible dizzy spells when everything would go black before my eyes. My fear of suffering from indigestion, gassy stomach or sourness afterwards and, in fact, I feel better in every way."

Only a trial can bring a full appreciation of Vendol's remarkable benefits in such cases as that mentioned above.

If you're weak, tired and rundown from constipation or any stomach, kidney or liver disorder see the Vendol Specialist at Mathews Medicine store at once and let him explain how this remarkable herbal remedy will bring you quick, permanent and complete relief.

Mischa Elman, Noted Violinist, to Give Concert on Monday

Mischa Elman.

First of the series of three concerts, which will be offered here under auspices of The Civic Music association, will be presented at the Ceramic theatre next Monday evening, with the appearance of Mischa Elman, noted violinist.

The concerts will be for members of the association only and no tickets will be sold at the box office.

Mischa Elman is regarded as one of America's celebrated and talented violinists. With the close of the 1922-23 musical season, he brought to a climax his twelfth American concert tour—an unusual record even for an extraordinary artist. During the season not less than 167 concert engagements were filled over a territory which ranged from Quebec to El Paso, Texas and from Vancouver to New Orleans.

To the recognition which has always been his at the hands of the purely artistic community, has been added an almost unlooked for degree of approval from the general public. The press, which has closely followed his growth as an artist, places him among the very greatest names which the age has associated with the music of the violin, or any age with the perfect and triumphant mastery of the instrument.

He has played hundreds of records for the Victor Talking Machine company.

Elman was born in Russia in 1851 and when but five years old played the violin in public. At the age of 13, before a big audience at St. Petersburg, he was greeted as an artist. He made his debut in America in 1908, with the Russian Symphony orchestra.

WASHINGTON—All of the fifty-four ambassadors and ministers who represent the United States in foreign countries, with the exception of six, are now at their posts, a census of the State department today revealed.

With the number of diplomats involved, the necessity of their traveling a great deal, both on official duties and on vacations, and the fact that the United States is one the eve of a political election that may play a large part in their political fortunes, the present showing is considered an excellent record.

Of the six absent five are in the United States on leave, and the sixth, Edgar A. Bancroft, has just been appointed as ambassador to Japan. He is now in Washington undergoing a brief study of the State department records preparatory to sailing for Tokyo.

Edward Bell, the counselor, is acting as Charge d'Affaires in Peking, while Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, the Minister, is in this country on leave. Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France; Peter Augustus Jay, Minister to Romania, and Franklin E. Morales, minister to Honduras, are all in this country on leave, and Robert Woods Bliss has just arrived in Washington from Stockholm.

Miss Helen A. Travis Becomes Bride of Jesse W. Calhoun

Pretty Ceremony is Solemnized in Home of Mrs. Rachel Herbert of Highland Colony at Noon Wednesday.

In the presence of 20 friends and relatives Miss Helen Aken Travis, daughter of Attorney George Y. Travis of Avondale street, became the bride of Attorney Jesse W. Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Calhoun of West Plains, Mo. The impressive ring ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms and ferns, at noon Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Rachel Herbert of Highland Colony, with Dr. Donald W. McLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Miss Ethel Mercer sang "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning," preceding the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a gown of blue satin, and wore a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley. She is a graduate of the East Liverpool high school with the class of '15, and also of Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. Miss Esther Leva, bride's maid, wore a gown of tan tulle with a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom, who was attended by an uncle of the bride, John C. Travis, of Greensburg, Pa., is the senior member of Calhoun and Bush, attorneys-at-law, practicing in Kokomo, Ind. He graduated from the law school at Valparaiso University with the class of 1916. He is a veteran of the World War, serving as second lieutenant with the 339th Infantry in North Russia.

A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. Pink roses attractively surrounded the large wedding cake, with a color scheme of pink and white predominating throughout the appointments. Valparaiso, Ind. Miss Esther Leva, bride's maid, wore a gown of tan tulle with a corsage of pink roses.

Millworker Finds Quick Relief

American Sheet & Tin Plate Co., employee declares "VENDOL" built him up and promptly overcame stomach and liver troubles.

All the clerks at Mathews Medicine Store where the Vendol Specialist is now asking his headquarters are enthused over Vendol for every day some of the customers come in and tell how this fine plant and herb tonic has quickly relieved headaches, indigestion, gas, stomach, nausea, dizziness, bad breath or some other trouble caused by a disordered digestive system. Many even report complete relief from backache and rheumatism.

MR. F. E. WILLIAMS.

Mr. F. E. Williams, R. D. No. 2, Wellsville, O., was in several days ago and gladly gave permission to publish his experience in the paper. He says:

"Vendol's quick action, surely surprised me for I had expected to take a number of bottles before noting any great benefits. However, just one bottle has built me up wonderfully and completely relieved constipation and liver troubles which brought on the terrible dizzy spells when everything would go black before my eyes. My fear of suffering from indigestion, gassy stomach or sourness afterwards and, in fact, I feel better in every way."

Only a trial can bring a full appreciation of Vendol's remarkable benefits in such cases as that mentioned above.

If you're weak, tired and rundown from constipation or any stomach, kidney or liver disorder see the Vendol Specialist at Mathews Medicine Store at once and let him explain how this remarkable herbal remedy will bring you quick, permanent and complete relief.

Mischa Elman, Noted Violinist, to Give Concert on Monday

Mischa Elman.

First of the series of three concerts, which will be offered here under auspices of The Civic Music association, will be presented at the Ceramic theatre next Monday evening, with the appearance of Mischa Elman, noted violinist.

The concert will be for members of the association only and no tickets will be sold at the box office.

Mischa Elman is regarded as one of America's celebrated and talented violinists. With the close of the 1922-23 musical season, he brought to a climax his twelfth American concert tour—an unusual record even for an extraordinary artist. During the season not less than 167 concert engagements were filled over a territory which ranged from Quebec to El Paso, Texas and from Vancouver to New Orleans.

To the recognition which has always been his at the hands of the purely artistic community, has been added an almost unlooked for degree of approval from the general public. The press, which has closely followed his growth as an artist, places his among the very greatest names which the age has associated with the music of the violin, or any age with the perfect and triumphant mastery of the instrument.

He has played hundreds of records for the Victor Talking Machine company.

Elman was born in Russia in 1881 and when but five years old played the violin in public. At the age of 13, before a big audience at St. Petersburg, he was greeted as an artist. He made his debut in America in 1908, with the Russian Symphony orchestra.

Diplomats Stick To Jobs Closely; Five on Vacations

WASHINGTON.—All of the fifty-four ambassadors and ministers who represent the United States in foreign countries, with the exception of six, are now at their posts, a census of the State department today revealed. With the number of diplomats involved, the necessity of their traveling a great deal, both on official duties and on vacations, and the fact that the United States is one of the eve of a political election that may play a large part in their political fortunes, the present showing is considered an excellent record.

PUBLIC DANCE HALLS SCORED

Gotham Owners Urged
By Women's Club to Clean Up.

NEW YORK—Urging dance hall owners to use their best efforts toward elevation of the dance hall committee of the Women's City Club, Inc., points out that the owners are in a strategic position to make their places of business more attractive, decency in dancing, it was asserted, can be accomplished by elimination of so-called indecent steps.

There are 780 dance halls in the city of New York the report shows, and they are visited by an average of 100,000 persons sixty times annually. The patrons pay for their pleasure at the rate of $5,000,000 a year, and $1,500,000 of this sum goes to hat checkers retaliating with rough treatment of articles checked from those patrons who refuse to tip.

The system of hostesses maintained in many dance halls is not condemned in the report, but it is given considerable criticism. The committee declares there are two kinds of hostesses to be found. One of this type is to protect patrons from gamblers and confidence men, and the other victimizes out-of-town patrons, delivering them into the hands of swindlers and often sharing in the spoils.

One type of dance hall was described in the report as "closed" and was criticized for commercialism.

"Girls are hired on a commission basis to dance with the men patrons," the report states. "As a rule, no other women are admitted—or, at least, they are not welcome. The dance floor is partitioned off, and access to it is possible only through one or more gateways. Admission charges include six or eight dances. Thereafter each dance must be paid for at the rate of ten cents; or, in some instances, two dances for twenty-five cents. Dances are short, averaging from forty to sixty seconds, and intermissions are from thirty to sixty seconds in length. Usually only one orchestra is employed; and the music is not up to the quality of that of the dance palaces. Both patrons and the young women dance partners are exploited."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Hay Crop Offsets Shortage in Corn; Figures Cited

CHICAGO—Hay and other forage crops in the sections east of New England show an average estimated increase over the 1923 crop of 18 per cent, according to figures of a local agricultural foundation. This, the report points out, will partially make up for the apparent corn shortage.

Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, eastward to the New England States, show the increase, while the Northeastern section of the country indicates a 19 per cent average decrease under last year.

The tame hay crop of 1924 is estimated at 88,454,000 tons. This compares with 89,098,000 tons harvested last year. The average condition of the

See How Quickly
You Can Banish
Gray Hair

This Clean, Colorless Liquid Will Quickly
Restore the Former Color

Amazing results are reported by thousands of people who have seen their gray hair return to its original color under the touch of the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak. Many report results in a week.

In this clean, colorless liquid we have a true substitute for the natural pigmentation, which the hair has lost because of age, illness, shock, scalp disease or some other cause. Remarkable as it may seem, Kolor-Bak not only banishes the grayness, but restores the actual former color to the hair, no matter what it was—black, brown, red, auburn. And the color is uniform throughout—the hair does not appear streaked, faded or dyed.

Kolor-Bak is not sticky or messy. It is just as easy to use as clear water. It also cleanses the head of dandruff, seborrhea or scale, keeps the scalp in good condition, gives the hair a beautiful, silky appearance and prevents it from becoming brittle and falling out.

As long as your hair retains its youthful appearance, you get the benefit of being young—and to be wild hay crop is reported at only 76.5 per cent normal. This is only one-fifth as large as the tame hay crop.

The September condition of alfalfa hay was only 77.2 per cent, compared with 87.2 per cent a year ago.

Total hay production, including both tame and wild, amounts to approximately 105 to 110 million tons annually, according to the foundation, and since consumption is relatively heavier in the winter months, it is pointed out that a few weeks' additional open weather during the Spring or Fall, or a few weeks added to the period in which indoor feeding must be carried on, would cause a difference of millions of tons in total hay consumption.

Hay Crop Offsets Shortage in Corn; Figures Cited

CHICAGO—Hay and other forage crops in the sections east of New England show an average estimated increase over the 1923 crop of 18 per cent, according to figures of a local agricultural foundation. This, the report points out, will partially make up for the apparent corn shortage.

Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, eastward to the New England States, show the increase, while the Northeastern section of the country indicates a 19 per cent average decrease under last year.

The tame hay crop of 1924 is estimated at $8,454,000 tons. This compares with $9,998,000 tons harvested last year. The average condition of the

See How Quickly You Can Banish Gray Hair

This Clean, Colorless Liquid Will Quickly Restore the Former Color

Amazing results are reported by thousands of people who have seen their gray hair return to its original color under the touch of the remarkable preparation known as Kolor-Bak. Many report results in a week.

In this clean, colorless liquid we have a true substitute for the natural pigmentation, which the hair has lost because of age, illness, shock, scalp disease or some other cause. Remarkable as it may seem, Kolor-Bak not only banishes the grayness, but restores the actual former color to the hair, no matter what it was—black, brown, red, auburn. And the color is uniform throughout—the hair does not appear streaked, faded or dyed.

Kolor-Bak is not sticky or messy. It is just as easy to use as clear water. It also cleanses the head of dandruff, seborrhea or scale, keeps the scalp in good condition, gives the hair a beautiful, silky appearance and prevents it from becoming brittle and falling out.

As long as your hair retains its youthful appearance, you get credit for being young—and to be young is always an advantage in both social and business life. Both men and women have a reliable friend in Kolor-Bak.

No need to furnish samples of your hair to get the right preparation. Kolor-Bak is for all hair, no matter what its original color, so you don't have to do any "matching" or experimenting. Just try Kolor-Bak and see how quickly the lost color returns. Kolor-Bak is sold on money-back guarantee.

wild hay crop is reported at only 76.5 per cent normal. This is only one-fifth as large as the tame hay crop.

The September condition of alfalfa hay was only 77.2 per cent, compared with 87.2 per cent a year ago.

Total hay production, including both tame and wild, amounts to approximately 165 to 170 million tons annually, according to the foundation, and since consumption is relatively heavier in the winter months, it is pointed out that a few weeks' additional open weather during the Spring or Fall, or a few weeks added to the period in which indoor feeding must be carried on, would cause a difference of millions of tons in total hay consumption.

DR. BIEDERWOLF'S DISCOURSE ON DEITY OF NAZARENE

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, in his sermon Tuesday evening, said: John 20:28—"And Thomas answered and said unto Him, 'My Lord and My God.'"

Suppose anybody should talk like that to you and call you their "Lord" or "God," what would you say? You'd say, "Excuse me, Sir, but you've got your wires crossed." You'd say what Peter said to Cornelius. You remember Cornelius was about to worship Peter and Peter took him by the hand and said, "Stand up, for I also am a man as thou art."

But did you ever notice that Jesus never rebuked Thomas? He accepted his worship and commended him for it; and when He did it, He was either an arrogant and consummate hypocrite or He was the victim of a species of acute mental aberration or He was just what Thomas said he was; his "Lord" and his "God."

Who was Jesus? Do you know there is not another question in all the realm of human thought quite so important as this one, unless it is the question of what you are going to do with Jesus after you find out who He is.

There are problems, of course, connected with the person of Jesus which no human intellect has ever fathomed or ever will. The greatest minds of the world have grappled with His deity and His incarnation and the general mystery that surrounds His personality, and their noble efforts have brought us much that satisfies and helps. But they have said one and all that their explorations have been like those of Sir Isaac Newton, who in his search after knowledge, said he seemed like a school boy walking by the sea-shore and picking up a pebble here and there while the vast deep rolled unexplored at his feet.

There's no doctrine that's been pounded like this one. Of course we can't agree on every little thing and I've absolutely no patience with these cramped and contracted heresy-hunters who are eternally whetting their theological razors and trying to split ecclesiastical hairs with a view to stirring up a muss because of some little deflection of doctrine on the part of somebody else.

But when it comes to the one thing upon which the whole system of our Christian religion rests, the deity, the divinity of Jesus Christ, we must be of one mind. This fundamental truth must be accepted. Deny it and you knock the key-stone out of the arch and the whole thing comes down with a crash.

Deity and Divinity.

And now some follow steps up and says, "Biederwolf, you're confusing your terms when you talk about deity and divinity in the same breath." Well, I'd like to know the difference between the two. There is but one who is divine and He is God, and if Christ was God, if the apostle John was right when he said, "The Word was God and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us," then Christ and Christ alone was divine as God is divine.

If a difference between deity and divinity must be admitted let it not be the kind of difference that some people want to make, a difference that makes Jesus Christ less than He really is.

"Oh, yes," says the Unitarian, "I believe Christ was divine."

But how do you believe He was divine? I can believe that a rose is divine, or even a cat if you'll allow me to place my own definition on divinity.

Yes, Mr. Unitarian, tell us how you believe that Christ was divine.

"Oh," he says—and you know this is what the Unitarian says; if you don't know it, hear it now and never forget it—he says, "Christ was divine just as any other man is divine; that is, He had no distinctive divinity; He had no divinity peculiar to himself such as other men do not have; He was a good man, the best man that ever lived, if you please; in this sense He had more divinity than any other man ever had, but it was only the same kind of divinity that you and I ourselves have."

Now if that isn't a true and fair representation of the Unitarian position concerning Jesus Christ, then I don't know "straight up" and can't read the English language in plain black and white.

But that at once robs Jesus Christ of His Saviourhood and strips Him of His power to redeem me from my sin.

Want God as Saviour.

I tell you, I want God to be my Saviour.

Say, do you know that the unbelievers of this world have tried to out-do each other in applauding the character of Jesus Christ.

Pilate called Him "The man without fault."

Pilate called Him "The Unsurpassed."

Napoleon called Him "The Emperor of Love."

David Strauss called Him "The highest model of religion."

John Stuart Mill called Him "The Guide of humanity."

Leccky called Him "The highest pattern of virtue."

Pecant called Him "The Holy One before God."

Martineau called Him "The divine flower of humanity."

Renan called Him "The greatest among the sons of men."

John Stuart Mill called Him "The youth with God in his heart."

Francis Cobb called Him "The regenerator of humanity."

Robert Owen called Him "The true prophet."

But none or all of these will do. Doesn't the Bible make it plain enough and doesn't your own conviction corroborate it, that no man however great or wise or good can save his own soul, much less the soul of any other man?

I sat, in the home of a Unitarian minister in Alton Ill. I said to him, "Is the Bible the infallible word of God?"

He said, "No, it is the fallible word of man."

I said, "Who was Jesus Christ?"

He said, "He was a good man who lived in Palestine."

I said, "Then He was not your Saviour?"

He said, "No."

I said, "Have you got a saviour?"

He said, "Yes."

I said, "Who is he?"

He said, "I am my own saviour."

He was painfully consistent of nothing else. But that is the place where every man must stand who robs the only begotten Son of God of His deity and denies to Him any distinctive divinity which other human beings do not have.

But now on the scene comes the fool and says, "It's a mystery, this thing of the deity of Christ; let it alone; you can't believe what you can't understand."

Well, so far as believing what you can't understand, you poor fool, you do that every day.

Can't Fathom Mystery.

And as for letting this mystery alone, you can't do it. There are other mysteries and you can't let them alone, but this one you can't. Man is a religious animal and he simply can not shake off his religious instincts; and right in the very center of the religion which faces every civilized human being is the person of Jesus Christ, asking today as He did in other days when He mingled among the men of Palestine, what do you think of me? Who do men say that I am?

That's the challenge of Christ Himself, and you can't evade it. You may try to evade it as Ritschl does; but an undefined Christ is no Christ at all. And so my friend, if you have never done any careful conservative thinking about Jesus Christ, I want to ask you to do it now.

World Needs Christ.

If there ever was a time when both the world and the church needed a clean, clear, concise reaffirmation of the fundamental fact upon which Christianity rests and without we have nothing more than a creed as insipid and lifeless as the Humanitarianism of August Comte and a religion as effete and worthless as Matthew Arnold's "dilettante gospel of sweetness and light," that time is now.

What about the seething social unrest of our day; the anarchical crying, "To hell with social order;" the criminal denying responsibility for existence; the tolling, struggling masses clamoring against what they believe to be the unjust and pathetic inequalities of the present day economic system; the scholastic testing everything under the searchlight of experiment; modern society which too often, alas, is little more than refined paganism, atheistic in head and superstitious in heart, seeking to relieve its sense of emptiness by horrible extremes of voluptuous indulgence? What about it?

Is it not true after all that the world's ache at the bottom is a heart-ache? What kind of a Christ then shall we give it for the healing of its wounds and the righting of its wrongs?

Shall we give it the Christ of John Stuart Mill? Shall we give it the Christ of Theodore Parker, the Christ of Renan, the Christ of Martineau, or shall we give it the Christ of God we find in the Gospels?

But after all the unhappiest feature of this unhappy controversy about "Who Jesus Christ was" is that the church herself needs the same clear, clean, concise reaffirmation of her own faith.

More Faithful Ministry.

If the so-called evangelical ministry had only been more faithful to its ecclesiastical vow, the question mark which so many church members are putting before the deity of Christ would not be there today.

Some ministers preach as if this was a thing no longer essential to the Christian faith. Our churches are filled with members who know little if any difference between the Unitarian church and their own. Why is this? It is because we preachers have been remains in defining the faith.

I held a campaign one time in a city where there was a Unitarian college and the ministers waited upon me upon my arrival and besought me to say nothing about Unitarianism. They were so mixed up with it in their churches that they feared friction might be the result. Of course I told them I expected to get my message from God. But until the absolute and vital and eternally uncompromising distinction between the Christian and Unitarian faith was made clear hundreds of people came down the aisle and signed cards professing their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour and at the same time stated their preference for the Unitarian church. Of course I had to tell them that was either no compliment to their intelligence or to my preaching.

That the Bible writers claimed that Christ was divine and that Christ Himself claimed to be divine in a qualitative sense that no other men is divine there can be absolutely no doubt whatever.

Isiah in so many words called Him, "The mighty God, the over-living Father." (Isaiah 9:6.)

John said, "The Word was God," and "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." (John 1:14.)

Paul said He was "God manifest in the flesh." (1 Tim. 3:16), and called Him "The Lord of Glory" (1 Cor. 2:8) and "God over all." (Rom. 9:5).

Christ Was Divine.

Say, could they have said all this about you or any other mere man?

A Unitarian preacher said to an evangelical clergyman, "If the doctrine of Christ's deity were true, I am sure so important a doctrine must have been revealed with a clearness no one could have mistaken."

"Well, said the clergyman, 'What language would you have chosen?'"

"I would have called him the true God," replied the Unitarian.

"That's right," said the old preacher, "and that's just what John did call Him; 1 John 5:20 'ven His Son Jesus Christ; this is the true God.'"

And then don't tell me that Christ didn't claim a divinity different from that of any other man.

He called Himself the "Only begotten Son of God," and for this you know the Jews tried to stone Him to death one day and when Jesus said

"What's this for?" they said, "Because you being a man claim to be equal with God and so make yourself to be God, and you're a blasphemer and you ought to die." (Matt. 26:63, 64; 27:42; Luke 22:70, 71; John 19:7; 5:18; 10:23.)

Now I'll miss my guess if those old Jews who lived with Him and heard Him talk didn't know as much about what He claimed for Himself as the modern Unitarian or anybody else.

Why didn't Jesus Christ set them right if they were wrong in their estimate of what He claimed? Tell me,

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

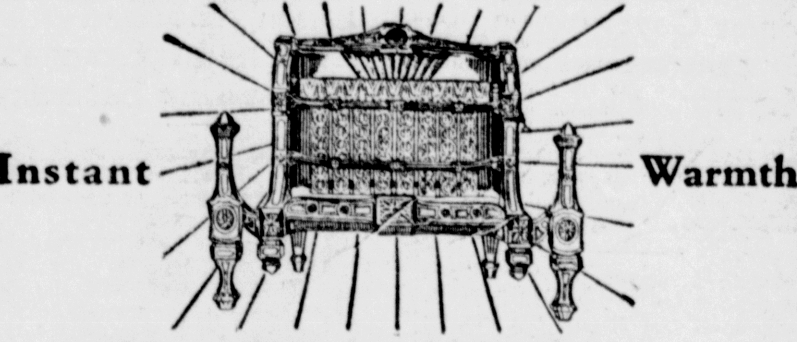

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

World Needs Christ.

If there ever was a time when both the world and the church needed a clean, clear, concise reaffirmation of the fundamental fact upon which Christianity rests and without which we have nothing more than a creed as in the old days when the Humanitarianism of August Comte and a religion as effete and worthless as Matthew Arnold's "dilettante gospel of sweetness and light," that time is now.

What about the seething social unrest of our day; the anarchist crying, "To hell with social order;" the criminal decrying responsibility for existence; the toiling, struggling masses clamoring against what they believe to be the unjust and pathetic inequalities of the present day economic system; the scholastic testing everything under the searchlight of experiment; modern society which too often, alas, is little more than refined paganism, atheistic in head and superstitious in heart, seeking to relieve its sense of emptiness by horrible extremes of voluptuous indulgence? What about it?

Is it not true after all that the world's ache at the bottom is a heart-ache? What kind of a Christ then shall we give it for the healing of its wounds and the rightening of its wrongs?

Shall we give it the Christ of John Stuart Mill? Shall we give it the Christ of Theodore Parker, the Christ of Renan, the Christ of Martineau, or shall we give it the Christ of God we find in the Gospels?

But after all the unhappiest feature of this unhappy controversy about "Who Jesus Christ was" is that the church herself needs the same clear, clean, concise reaffirmation of her own faith.

More Faithful Ministry.

If the so-called evangelical ministry had only been more faithful to its ecclesiastical vow, the question mark which so many church members are putting before the deity of Christ would not be there today.

Some ministers preach as if this was a thing no longer essential to the Christian faith. Our churches are filled with members who know little if any difference between the Unitarian church and their own. Why is this? It is because we preachers have been remiss in defining the faith.

I held a campaign one time in a city where there was a Unitarian college and the ministers waited upon me upon my arrival and besought me to say nothing about Unitarianism. They were so mixed up with it in their churches that they feared friction might be the result. Of course I told them I expected to get my message from God. But until the absolute and vital and eternally uncompromising distinction between the Christian and Unitarian faith was made clear hundreds of people came down the aisle and signed cards professing their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour and at the same time stated their preference for the Unitarian church. Of course I had to tell them that was either no commitment to their intelligence or to my preaching.

That the Bible writers claimed that Christ was divine and that Christ Himself claimed to be divine in a qualitative sense that no other men is divine there can be absolutely no doubt whatever.

Isiah in so many words called Him, "The mighty God, the everlasting Father." (Isaiah 9:6.)

John said, "The Word was God," and "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." (John 1:14.)

Paul said He was "God manifest in the flesh." (1 Tim. 3:16), and called Him "The Lord of Glory" (1 Cor. 2:8) and "God over all." (Rom. 9:5.)

Christ Was Divine.

Say, could they have said all this about you or any other mere man? A Unitarian preacher said to an evangelical clergyman, "If the doctrine of Christ's deity were true, I am sure so important a doctrine must have been revealed with a clearness no one could have mistaken."

"Well, said the clergyman, 'What language would you have chosen?'"

"I would have called him the true God," replied the Unitarian.

"That's right," said the old preacher, "and that's just what John did call Him; 1 John 5:20 'even His Son Jesus Christ; this is the true God.'"

And then don't tell me that Christ didn't claim a divinity different from that of any other man.

He called Himself the "Only begotten Son of God," and for this you know the Jews tried to stone Him to death one day and when Jesus said

"What's this for?" they said, "Because you being a man claim to be equal with God and so make yourself to be God, and you're a blasphemer and you ought to die. (Matt. 26:63, 64; 27:42; Luke 22:70, 71; John 19:7; 5:18; 10:23.)"

Now I'll miss my guess if those old Jews who lived with Him and heard Him talk didn't know as much about what He claimed for Himself as the modern Unitarian or anybody else.

Why didn't Jesus Christ set them right if they were wrong in their estimate of what He claimed? Tell me.

Health Protection in Bread

PERHAPS you never dreamed that so commonplace a food as good bread could contain so many of the elements that create energy, safeguard vitality and promote health.

BETSY ROSS—scientifically-made bread—bears a supply of calcium, iron, phosphorous and other mineral salts that, with an ordinary diet, furnishes the balanced ration that spells health and well-being.

BETSY ROSS bread is rich in health-giving qualities. No single food contains so many. And it is good, so wholesome, so appetizing! Serve it freely and keep fit.

Serve this delicious recipe for afternoon tea:

- Devilled Shrimps
- 1 1/2 pounds cooked shrimp meat
- 1/2 teaspoonful each salt and 7-cash mustard
- 1/2 cup bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoonful butter
- 1/2 lemon
- 1/2 teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
- 2 beaten eggs
- 2 tablespoonfuls cream

Mix all thoroughly; butter individual ramequins or scallop shells and fill with mixture. Bake in hot oven fifteen minutes.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR MASS MEETINGS OF REPUBLICANS

Former Governor Davis, Congressman Frank Murphy and Others Booked for Addresses in County Friday Evening.

Complete arrangements have been announced by Chairman Charles E. Hamilton, of the Republican county committee, for the several Republican mass meetings scheduled for five towns and cities in this county Friday night and for a meeting at East Palestine Thursday evening.

The original list of speakers has been changed by the state speakers' bureau, with the result that a better array of talent has been assigned to Columbiana county than before.

On account of so many people at East Palestine desiring to hear former Governor Harry L. Davis at Salem Friday evening, it was deemed proper that the meeting scheduled for East Palestine Friday night be advanced to Thursday night, which would leave the people there free to attend the Salem meeting Friday night.

Congressman B. Frank Murphy, of Steubenville, and Judge Lodge Riddle will be the speakers at the East Palestine meeting, which has been arranged for by the Republican central committee of East Palestine.

Former Governor Harry L. Davis, with Congressman Murphy and Mrs. High Clark, of Steubenville, will speak at the Salem meeting, with Mr. Murphy discussing national issues, and Mr. Davis the issues of the state campaign. Mrs. Clark will direct her talk to the women voters of the Salem community.

Secretary of State Thad Brown will be unable to speak at the meeting at Lisbon on account of his schedule being changed, which places him in Utica Friday night. In his stead, however, Hon. John Bricker, special counsel in the office of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, and also Judge Victor Gibbs, of Columbus, will speak.

The speakers at the East Liverpool meeting will be Dr. J. M. Ford, a national labor leader, and Mrs. Ruth Moser Place, of Michigan, also from the national speakers' bureau. In addition to these, former Governor Davis will also speak, being driven to East Liverpool immediately upon the close of his Salem address. In addition to these speakers, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, of Washington, will also speak, confining himself to the main to the issues of the national campaign.

Percy Tetlow, formerly of Leetonia, but now of Columbus, and a leader in the National Mine Workers' union, will speak at Wellsville, together with Mrs. Ruth Moser Place, of Michigan.

The Salineville meeting will be addressed by Judge G. P. Gilmer, of Warren, one of the most noted jurists in Ohio, and who has achieved a national reputation as a speaker on both state and national issues.

All of these meetings will be held Friday evening, with the exception of the one at East Palestine Thursday night.

Congressman Murphy will come into Columbiana county Thursday afternoon, and will remain until Friday.

Woman Cites Many Causes in Divorce Petition to Court

Claiming that she was forced to marry a man who is deaf and dumb is a startling sentence in the divorce petition filed in common pleas court by Jennie Ross, by her counsel, Leo S. Wilkoff, of Youngstown, against her husband, Dominic Ross, whom she married in Pittsburgh, Pa., October 10, 1921.

Her father-in-law, the petition recites, after forcing the marriage, said that he would get the young people up in housekeeping, but after the marriage, they were given a room in the same house, and that she was compelled to act the part of a "maid."

Ross blackened the eyes of his wife with his fists and otherwise beat and ill-treated her, the petition sets forth. Mrs. Ross also claims that in the years she has been married that her husband has failed to provide for her, that he has been guilty of extreme cruelty and that he never went out with her, except once—when he took her to a picture show.

The couple have no children. Ross is said to be residing at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Alleging that his wife has been absent from her home for more than three years, and that she has been guilty of gross neglect, Walter Hendrickson, through his counsel, Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool, has filed a suit for divorce against his wife, Marian Hendrickson, residing at 117 Garvin street, Elyria. The couple were married March 1, 1916, at Elyria. No children are of issue.

Jury Trial Waved.

A jury trial was waived in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and the cause was submitted to Judge Charles S. Turnbaugh on a statement of fact. Leave has been granted by the court to the plaintiff, through her counsel, H. W. Hammond, of Columbiana, to file a reply instantly.

Program Arranged For Elkrun Grange Meeting Saturday

The next regular meeting of Elkrun grange will be held Saturday evening, when a program of unusual interest will be given.

The program has been arranged by Lucinda Morlan, lecturer for the grange. The meeting will be in charge of Van Morris, master.

The program for the evening is as follows: Song, grange; discussion, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," of these three which is the greatest, Nora Morris and William Smith; "How many state supported colleges are there in Ohio?" Will Baker; "Would it pay to name your farm and have your own letter head?" F. C. Armstrong; music; discussion, "What is the most dangerous insect-pest at present in Ohio?" grange; saxophone solo, Wilmer Morlan; reading, Lula Barnes; music; closing song, grange.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR HOME WORK

The county commissioners have awarded the contract for the stucco improvement of the brick buildings at the county home to M. R. Montague of Alliance on his bid of $5,550.

The painting of the frame buildings was awarded to D. F. Nellis of East Liverpool on his bid of $230.

Herman C. Armstrong of Lisbon entered a bid of $6,891 for the stucco job, while D. F. Nellis & Son of East Liverpool filed a bid of $6,351.

DAMAGE VERDICT CASE IS APPEALED

The Purity Ice Cream company of East Liverpool has appealed the case filed against it in the court of Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall of East Liverpool by Harry Wedgewood of East End, East Liverpool to common pleas court. Wedgewood sued the company for $12 damages alleged done a machine owned by the plaintiff by a motor truck owned by the defendant. Judgment for the claim was taken by default in the lower court.

Wilbur Diller of Akron, employed as a clerk, and Miss Lotus Garalde of Columbiana, have been granted a marriage license and were married by the Rev. Harold of Columbiana.

John C. Maybray of New Castle, Pa., employed as a railroad, and Miss Helen Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Peterson of East Liverpool, have been granted a marriage license and were married by a justice of the peace in Lisbon.

Assessments Fixed.

Tramping over the entire distance of sections D-1 and D-2 of the Wells-ville-Salineville road Tuesday, the county commissioners have completed the list of assessments that will be paid by property owners over this part of the road.

Cited for Contempt.

In the divorce action of Maud M. Pollock against Floyd E. Pollock, Judge James G. Moore has cited Pollock for contempt, and he is to report to the court Friday and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. Mrs. Pollock sued her husband for divorce, alimony and the custody of her children.

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

Gilmer, of Warren, one of the most noted jurists in Ohio, and who has achieved a national reputation as a speaker on both state and national issues.

All of these meetings will be held Friday evening, with the exception of the one at East Palestine Thursday night. Congressman Murphy will come into Columbiana county Thursday afternoon, and will remain until Friday.

Woman Cites Many Causes in Divorce Petition to Court

Claiming that she was forced to marry a man who is deaf and dumb in a startling sentence in the divorce petition filed in common pleas court by Jennie Ross, by her counsel, Leo S. Wilkoff, of Youngstown, against her husband, Dominick Ross, whom she married in Pittsburgh, Pa., October 19, 1921.

Her father-in-law, the petition recites, after forcing the marriage, said that he would set the young people up in housekeeping, but after the marriage, they were given a room in the same house, and that she was compelled to act the part of a "maid". Ross blackened the eyes of his wife with his fists and otherwise beat and ill-treated her, the petition sets forth. Mrs. Ross also claims that her husband has been married to her in extreme cruelty and that he never went out with her, except once—when he took her to a picture show.

The couple have no children. Ross is said to be residing at Beaver Falls, Pa. Alleging that his wife has been absent from her home for more than three years, and that she has been guilty of gross neglect, Walter Hendrickson, through his counsel, Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool, has filed a suit for divorce against his wife, Marian Hendrickson, residing at 117 Garvin street, Elyria. The couple were married March 1, 1916, at Elyria. No children are of issue.

Jury Trial Waved. A jury trial was waived in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and the cause was submitted to Judge Charles S. Turnbaugh on a statement of fact. Leave has been granted by the court to the plaintiff, though her counsel, H. W. Hammond, of Columbiana, to file a reply instantly.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the thrilling heat. In three minutes the congested spots are warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

Send us $1.00 and we will send it to you postpaid with our absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded. W. S. Fouts, Wheeling, W. Va., says: "Have only taken six doses and feel better than for three months. I believe it a cure in my case." The Jackson Medicine Co., Zanesville, O.

C. G. Anderson

Ends Her Neuralgia—Due to Pyorrhea

The poisonous pus from sore, bleeding gums infects the entire system. Then you get rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, stomach disorders. It does not pay to let Pyorrhea go unchecked—and it is unnecessary now that you can get Jo-Vex. Here is what a Lakewood, Ohio, woman wrote us: "The first night I used Jo-Vex it stopped my neuralgia which was caused by pyorrhea. The second day the bleeding of the gums stopped and the fourth day there was a pronounced tightening of the loosened teeth. (Signed) Beatrice Garcey, 17833 Northcliff Drive."

Jo-Vex is easy to use and inexpensive. Sold on money-back guarantee by most druggists, especially C. G. Anderson.

If your dealer can't supply you, send $1.00 to the Jo-Vex Co., Akron, Ohio.

Diphtheria Preventive Administered.

The third and final injection of toxin antitoxin, a preventative against diphtheria, was administered a large number of pupils of the Central school by Dr. G. W. Many, head of the Hancock county Public Health unit Wednesday. He was assisted by Miss Marion Bell, county health nurse.

The children, a number of whom are of pre-school age and who were given the first injection of the preventative serum last Wednesday, received the second injection.

The final "shot" will be given these children a week from Wednesday.

Lutherans Open Biennial Meet; 500 Delegates Attend

Members Urged to Measure up More Fully to Needs of Times in Educational and Merciful Undertakings.

CHICAGO—The United Lutheran Church in America, which has about 1,300,000 members in the United States and Canada, was urged today by its president, the Rev. Dr. F. H. Knobel, to endeavor to measure up more fully to the needs of the times in its educational and merciful undertakings.

President Knobel expressed the hope that, as one important step in that direction, the church would approve of the proposal to be submitted to it providing for the appointment of a special commission on theological education.

His comments and suggestions were made in the course of his report to the biennial convention of the church with 500 delegates in session here.

The President's comments were made in the course of an estimate of the progress of the Lutheran Church in America, in which he asserted that his church now receives far more public recognition and respect than in the past. People no longer speak emphatically of the lackluster of Lutheranism. The public now credits Lutheranism with fidelity to Evangelism.

The six years of test since the United Lutheran Church in America was formed by merger of 35 synods have proved, President Knobel declared, that the merged organization is admirably adapted to the work to be done and is operating harmoniously.

In contrast with his suggestions for strengthening the church, Dr. Knobel called attention to the many advances it has made in two years. These include its purchase from the Germans of their entire missionary equipment in Shantung, China; the building of a publication house in Philadelphia, magnificent attainments of the Women's Missionary Society, and a movement to establish a Lutheran women's college in the United States.

BOOSTERS WILL GO TO REVIVAL

Members of the Chester Boosters' Club decided to attend a meeting of the revival campaign now in progress in East Liverpool in a body some time next week at the bi-weekly meeting of the club held Tuesday in the Masonic temple, First street.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf of Monticello, Ind., the evangelist who is preaching at the union meetings, in which Chester churches are co-operating, was the principal speaker at the Boosters' meeting.

William McEwan, song leader at the revival, accompanied Dr. Biederwolf to Chester and rendered several vocal selections. All other business of the club was deferred.

CHURCH CLASS NAMES OFFICERS

Miss Mildred Haney was elected president of the Loyal Daughters' class of the Bible school of the First Christian church to serve for the ensuing year at the monthly meeting of the class held Tuesday evening in the basement of the church. She succeeds Miss Edna Wilson.

Other officials elected were vice president, Meda Haney; secretary, Grace Campbell and treasurer, Benja. Barker.

The class planned for a bake sale to be held November 1. The place will be announced later.

After the business session, a social hour was held and refreshments were served.

Mid-Week Prayer Services.

"Isaiah's Ideal" is the subject for the mid-week prayer services to be held Wednesday evening in the First United Presbyterian church. Rev. Thomas Newcomb, pastor, will be the leader. The text is taken from the 32nd chapter, first to eighth verses of Isaiah. Choir practice will be held following the services.

P. H. C. Euchre Party

The third of a series of euchre parties will be held in the I. O. O. F. K. of P. hall Thursday evening by Good Luck Circle, No. 360, Protected Home Circle of Chester. The euchre will follow the semi-monthly business meeting.

The local circle is planning a masquerade party to be held Thursday in their rooms.

Ends Her Neuralgia—Due to Pyorrhea

The poisonous pus from sore, bleeding gums infects the entire system. Then you get rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, stomach disorders. It does not pay to let Pyorrhea go unchecked—and it is unnecessary now that you can get Jo-Vex. Here is what a Lake-wood, Ohio, woman wrote us: "The first night I used Jo-Vex it stopped my neuralgia which was caused by pyorrhea. The second day the bleeding of the gums stopped and the fourth day there was a pronounced tightening of the loosened teeth. (Signed) Beatrice Garcey, 17833 Northcliff Drive."

Jo-Vex is easy to use and inexpensive. Sold on money-back guarantee by most druggists, especially C. G. Anderson.

If your dealer can't supply you, send $1.00 to the Jo-Vex Co., Akron, Ohio.

Diphtheria Preventive Administered.

The third and final injection of toxin antitoxin, a preventative against diphtheria, was administered a large number of pupils of the Central school by Dr. O. W. Many, head of the Hancock county Public Health unit Wednesday. He was assisted by Miss Marion Bell, county health nurse.

The children, a number of whom are of pre-school age and who were given the first injection of the preventative serum last Wednesday, received the second injection. The final "shot" will be given these children a week from Wednesday.

Member of U. S. Grand Jury.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. What is raisin bread day? K. C.
A. Raisin producers have endeavored to establish Wednesday as raisin bread day by persuading bakers everywhere to bake it especially for that day.

Q. How long ago did Howard Pyle paint the pirate picture "Marooned"? H. L.
A. The first reproduction of the painting was published in September 1887.

Q. Will the Government test samples of road materials? R. T.
A. The Bureau of Public Roads discontinued on July 1, 1924, the general practice of testing samples of road materials for any citizen of the United States. Samples are still tested when submitted by Federal, State, county or municipality authorities. When accompanied by a statement to the effect that the sampling was done by a disinterested person.

Q. What is the oldest church in Rome? G. C.
A. The church said to be the oldest in Rome is Santa Pudenziana.

Q. Is it known where Vergil was when he wrote the Georgics? T. R. J.
A. Vergil wrote the Georgics while living at Naples.

Q. What should be planted near strawberry beds and orchards to prevent damage by birds? T. T. D.
A. The Russian Mulberry may afford protection not only to strawberries and cherries, but to other fruits and vegetables. Rows of these trees, also early June berries and shadberry trees should be planted near the orchard, along roads and between grain fields.

Q. Which vegetables contain the most water; and do watermelons contain more water than Irish potatoes? R. L. A.
A. Vegetables containing the highest percentages of water are asparagus 94 per cent, celery 94.5 per cent, lettuce 94.7 per cent, fresh tomato 94.3, turnip 95, cucumber 95.9. The cucumber is not much more than solid water, there being just enough other material to give it flavor and consistency. The watermelon contains 92.4 water, whereas the Irish potato contains only 62.6 per cent.

Q. Are there good roads in the Philippines? M. R. V.
A. The Philippines are sometimes called a paradise for motorists because they possess more than 3,500 miles of fine macadamized roads.

Q. What is black frost? A. D. N.
A. Black frost is frost or cold so intense as to blacken vegetation.

Q. What is the expectation of life in the United States as compared with other countries? W. G.
A. At birth a person in the United States may expect to live 56 years; in Australia, 55 years; in Germany, 45; in India only 22 years. Persons in the United States who live to 52

Atlantic Ocean Now Only a Three-Track Road to Europe

With steamship transportation developed to the last word, regular airship service only a matter of time, and submarine voyages to be relied upon, the Atlantic Ocean is now only a three-track road to Europe. The Atlantic has been spanned by air five times now. First the U. S. navy airplane NC-4, did it; to be followed by the British aviators, Alcock and Brown in a biplane. Then the British R-34 made a round trip. The American round-the-world fliers jumped across it this summer. The German dirigible, latest to accomplish the trip, crossed in two days, more comfortably than any of its predecessors. Above: ZR 3. Center, NC-4, Alcock and map showing flights. Below: R-34 and world flight planes.

years have a further expectation of 21 years, according to estimates based on figures of the 1920 census.

Q. Was the jury for the Thaw case the largest ever impaneled in the United States? C. J.

A. At the trial of Harry K. Thaw 650 jurors were called before a jury could be made up. The largest list of talesmen was drawn 40 years ago when 1,200 were summoned in a case involving railroad rights in New York city.

Q. In what circumstances was "Monsieur Beaucaire" written? W. C. McC.

A. Booth Tarkington, in an interview related the following: "When I started I couldn't sell a story anywhere, I sent them to every publisher in the world, I guess, and they always came back. You were kind enough to say you liked one of my first, 'Monsieur Beaucaire.' I must tell you how I happened to write it. I had a friend who seemed enormously successful to me, and he asked me to illustrate a story of his. I could do that, at any rate, and I was very much pleased. Well, the magazine to which he sold his story failed, and there I was left with these illustrations on my hands. So I sat down and wrote a story to fit my illustrations and sold it. Wasn't that luck?"

The world's record swordfish was recently landed at Los Angeles after a 45 minute fight.

Ulster Unionists

Still Opposed to Boundary Commission

BELFAST—Ulster Unionists are vigorously continuing their campaign against the setting up of the Boundary Commission, as provided by the last bill passed by Parliament before dissolution.

The first of a series of country-wide protest demonstrations was recently held at Enniskillen, when prominent Ulster and English spokesmen addressed an immense gathering of 10,000 men.

The campaign will wind up with a huge meeting in Ulster Hall in this city.

At all meetings a resolution reaffirming Ulster's determination to stand by the Government of Ireland Act of 1920—in which the six-county area now in dispute was given to Ulster—is being passed.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. What is raisin bread day? K. C. A. Raisin producers have endeavored to establish Wednesday as raisin bread day by persuading bakers everywhere to bake it especially for that day.

Q. How long ago did Howard Pyle paint the pirate picture "Marooned"? H. L. A. The first reproduction of the painting was published in September 1887.

Q. Will the Government test samples of road materials? T. T. D. A. The Bureau of Public Roads discontinued on July 1, 1924, the general practice of testing samples of road materials for any citizen of the United States. Samples are still tested when submitted by Federal, State, county or municipality authorities. When accompanied by a statement to the effect that the sampling was done by a disinterested person.

Q. What is the oldest church in Rome? G. C. A. The church said to be the oldest in Rome is Santa Pudenziana.

Q. Is it known where Vergil was when he wrote the Georgics? T. R. J. A. Vergil wrote the Georgics while living at Naples.

Q. What should be planted near strawberry beds and orchards to prevent damage by birds? T. T. D. A. The Russian Mulberry may afford protection not only to strawberries and cherries, but to other fruits and vegetables. Rows of these trees, also early June berries and shadberry trees should be planted near the orchard, along roads and between grain fields.

Q. Which vegetables contain the most water; and do watermelons contain more water than Irish potatoes? R. L. A.

A. Vegetables containing the highest percentages of water are asparagus 94 per cent, celery 94.5 per cent, lettuce 94.7 per cent, fresh tomato 94.3, turnip 95, cucumber 95.9. The cucumber is not much more than solid water, there being just enough other material to give it flavor and consistency. The watermelon contains 92.4 water, whereas the Irish potato contains only 62.6 per cent.

Q. Are there good roads in the Philippines? M. R. V.

A. The Philippines are sometimes called a paradise for motorists because they possess more than 3,500 miles of fine macadamized roads.

Q. What is black frost? A. D. N. A. Black frost is frost or cold so intense as to blacken vegetation.

Q. What is the expectation of life in the United States as compared with other countries? W. G. A.

A. At birth a person in the United States may expect to live 56 years; in Australia, 55 years; in Germany, 45; in India only 22 years. Persons in the United States who live to 62

Atlantic Ocean Now Only a Three-Track Road to Europe

With steamship transportation developed to the last word, regular airship service only a matter of time, and submarine voyages to be relied upon, the Atlantic Ocean is now only a three-track road to Europe. The Atlantic has been spanned by air five times now. First the U. S. navy airplane NC-4, did it; to be followed by the British aviators, Alcock and Brown in a biplane. Then the British R-34 made a round trip. The American round-the-world fliers jumped across it this summer. The German-made dirigible, latest to accomplish the trip, crossed in two days, more comfortably than any of its predecessors. Above: ZR 3. Center, NC-4, Alcock and map showing flights. years have a further expectation of 21 years, according to estimates based on figures of the 1920 census.

Q. Was the jury for the Thaw case the largest ever impaneled in the United States? C. J. A.

A. At the trial of Harry K. Thaw 650 jurors were called before a jury could be made up. The largest list of talesmen was drawn 40 years ago when 1,200 were summoned in a case involving railroad rights in New York city.

Q. What circumstances was "Monsieur Beaucaire" written? W. C. McC.

A. Booth Tarkington, in an interview related the following: "When I started I couldn't sell a story anywhere, I sent them to every publisher in the world, I guess, and they always came back. You were kind enough to say you liked one of my first, 'Monsieur Beaucaire.' I must tell you how I happened to write it. I had a friend who seemed enormously successful to me, and he asked me to illustrate a story of his. I could do that, at any rate, and I was very much pleased. Well, the magazine to which he sold his story failed, and there I was left with these illustrations on my hands. So I sat down and wrote a story to fit my illustrations and sold it. Wasn't that luck?"

Why didn't He, Mr. Unitarian? He owed it to Himself and to the world and by every principle of philanthropy and every law of decency he owed it to them to save them from the horrible murder they were contemplating. But He acquiesced in the charge and allowed it to stand in all of its repulsive and blasphemous nature and sealed His claim by His own blood on the cross where they condemned Him to die because He said, "I am the only begotten Son of God." Could you, a man, say that?

Of course He claimed to be just what the Jews said He did, and when He did it, He was either what those Jews said He was, a blasphemer, or He was just that very person He claimed to be; unless He was a fool and didn't know any better.

He claimed His divinity on the three-fold ground of His divine knowledge, His divine power, and His divine authority.

Christ's Divine Knowledge.
1. As to His divine knowledge. He said, "No man knoweth the Son but the Father; and no man knoweth the Father but the Son and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal Him." (Matt. 11:27 and Luke 10:22).

What a daring, what a tremendous statement! How profane and how shocking if He were only a man! Would any mere man dare to say that he knew God as well as God knew Him? Would you?

II. As to His divine power. Among other things He said these three.

1. That He had ability to do whatever the Father did. "Whatsoever things the Father doeth these also doeth the Son likewise." What man ever used language so daring as that and claimed the full right and power to do all that the eternal Father had the right and power to do?

2. That He had the power to raise the dead. "As the Father raiseth up the dead and quickeneth them even so the Son quickeneth whomsoever He will." He said He would rise up His own body (John 2:19-21), and that the day was coming when all the dead would hear His voice and come forth out of their graves. How could He do this if He were not God in some sense that no other man has ever been?

3. That He had power to forgive sins. He said so in so many words. The Jews were right when they asked, "Who can forgive sins but God only?" But Christ not only claimed the right and power to do so, but He emphasized His claim and proved it by a miracle.

Christ's Divine Authority.
III. As to His divine authority. He said in the plainest terms that He will be the Universal Judge at the last great day. He said, "The Father judgeth no man but hath committed all judgment unto the Son." He says that He "will sit on the throne of His glory" and all shall be gathered before Him.

What mortal could say things like these? Who is this that professes to be able to scrutinize the thought and secret motives of men, to sit in judgment upon their words and their deeds and claims the authority to grasp and wield the divine thunderbolts of retribution if He be not something more than a man? Did ever man make a claim like that? Would you, a man, dare to make it?

There are only a few of His claims. He said, "Before Abraham was, I am." Could you, a man, say that? He said, "Glorify Thou me, Oh Father with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." Could a Roosevelt, a Gladstone or a Napoleon say that?

He says to the weary soul, "Come unto me and I will give you rest." Could you, a man, say that? He says that faith in Him means

Pimples

You will be started how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S. S. S.

PIMPLES are the first thing one notices in another person's face. It is too often cruel in its misjudgment. It judges from what it sees on the outside. Pimples are easy to get rid of. More red-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples starting at you in the mirror. Red-cells mean clear, pure, rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom forever from pimples, from blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions; from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S.S.S. will aid Nature in building them for you! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleaners and system-strengtheners ever produced. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

eternal life. Could you, a man, say that?

He said that He was sinless. He said, "Which one of you convinceth me of sin?" Could you or any other man say that?

He not only allowed Thomas to worship Him as Lord of God, but He distinctly said in so many words, "All men should honor the Son even as they honor the Father." Could you, a man, say that about yourself?

He says He is coming again in the clouds with great glory. Could you, a man, say that?

He says He is going to bring His holy angels with Him. How many angels are you, a man, going to bring with you?

A man who can read the New Testament and not see that Christ claims to be more than a man can look all over the sky at high noon on a cloudless day and not see the sun.

Jesus Has All Good Points.

Oh, I know your verse. You say, "Didn't Jesus say, 'My Father is greater than I'?" Yes, and God was greater than Jesus was in His humanity. But your verse knocks the props out from under your own argument. Because if Jesus was only a man, what need was there that He should tell us that His Father was greater than He was. Suppose you should get up and say, "God is greater than I am." We'd say, "Well, you fool, sit down; don't you suppose we know that?"

Now let us go a little farther. Why do I believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ?

1. I believe it, in the first place, for the reason just given. Because the Bible writers said He was divine and because Christ Himself claimed that He was divine.

2. I believe it, in the second place, because of His matchless character. He never for a single second wavered in the sublime self-consciousness of who He was. And He delivered the goods. His God-like life was His answer to every questioning or uncertain soul.

Then look at the universality of His character, its completeness and its moral perfection. How in a particular race and in a particular age, the whole world in our case as well as in His has found in Him its ideal and the answer to its every spiritual appeal.

Every man has some good points but Jesus Christ had them all; and He had them all in absolute perfection. He was the only impenitent man that ever lived. And He died that way. He prayed for others and said, "Father forgive them," but He never prayed for Himself and said, "Father, forgive me," because there was nothing in His life for which He needed to be forgiven.

Matchless Character of Jesus!
3. I believe it, in the third place, because of His masterly teaching. "He spoke as never man spoke." That's what the officers said when they came to arrest Him, and they were right.

If the books that have been written about His words were gathered up they would fill a thousand Congressional libraries, but His word alone would hardly make a vest-pocket edition. But their heights have never been scaled; their depths have never been sounded.

The infidel comes along and sets up the teachings of Confucius and Buddha ever against that of Jesus Christ, but I challenge the comparison. I know great truths felt from their lips and that the non-Christian religions have many ethical utterances worthy of profound admiration. But we have conceded too much.

Take the teachings of Jesus Christ about the great fundamental ethical conceptions, such as love and truth and purity and duty, and where in any non-Christian religion or when on the lips of any non-Christian teacher do I the world ever see or hear moral philosophy so profound, so radiant with divine glory and so God-like as that which comes from the heart and mind of this marvelous Man of Galilee.

Masterly Teaching of Jesus!

4. I believe it, in the next place, because of His marvelous influence. The biggest proof of the deity of Christ is just Christianity itself. Har-nack's book, "The Expansion of Christianity," does not allow the deity of Christ, but read it and tell me how such things could ever be wrought out by a power divine.

What did Darwin mean when he said, "A man about to be shipwrecked on some unknown coast will devoutly pray that the lesson of the missionary will have reached that far?" He meant that where the Gospel has not gone civilization has not gone, and such a shipwrecked man would likely find himself in the soup-tureen of a tribe of husky cannibals.

Take Christianity out of civilization; take it out of art, music, literature, and most of all out of the human heart and life, and you'd have mighty little left worthy of the name.

Confucianism, Buddhism and Mohammedanism have proven by their results that their founders were not divine, but to account for Christianity on any other basis than divinity is a historical impossibility. You might as well go out with a tallow candle to illuminate a golden sunset. You might as well try to paint a Sistine Madonna with a charcoal pencil.

What Jesus Christ always has been He is today, the transformer of the world's life, the reconstructor of human society, the animator of human progress, the one Master moulder of the world's civilization. And by this I know that He is divine.

Marvelous Influence of Jesus!
5. I believe it, in the next place, because of His mighty work. Jesus said, "The works that I do bear witness and like Nicodemus you will have to say that God was incarnate in the man who did such wonderful things."

Look at the greatest of them all. His resurrection. There is no better attested fact in history. I am more certain that Jesus rose from the dead than I am that there ever was a Declaration of Independence or that the battle of Bunker Hill was ever fought.

But greater after all than these are the miracle of His grace; and these He is doing today as in the days of old.

Redeem All People.
He is redeeming all kinds of people, the good, or rather what we call the good, as well as the bad. He takes the rich and shows them how really poor and naked they are. He takes the self-sufficient and shows them how really dependent they are. He takes the moral man and the moral woman, strips them of the worthless rags of self-righteousness and redeems them one and all to a new and powerful life.

Yes, and He does the same thing for the rone and the debauchee and the drunken sot. The chemists of the Standard Oil company took the black, foul, filthy and stinking residue of the refinery and made it into pure, white, transparent paraffin. That's wonderful enough. Yet a man can do it. But a man can't take a human heart that's black with sin and make it clean and white like snow; he can't take a human character befouled and besmirched with the pollution of hell and transform it into one of the world's mightiest instruments for righteousness. It takes a God to do that.

He takes a poor, staggering, drunk river-thief and transforms him into

OHIO A Manufacturing State

OHIO is proud of its manufacturing. Only two other states, New York and Pennsylvania, surpass it in the value and diversity of its manufactured products.

An army of nearly 1,000,000 people, or enough to constitute a city almost as large as greater Cleveland, is engaged in this work of production.

Ohio has twenty-two cities in each of which the annual value of manufactured products exceeds twenty million dollars.

Our state is ideally situated, being just west of the Appalachians, between lake and river. The excellent water transportation was early appreciated while roadbeds seem to have been specially prepared by nature for the great railway systems which cover the state and furnish connection with all parts of the nation.

Ohio's manufacturing plants are constantly increasing and in order to keep pace with this expansion, The Ohio Bell Telephone Company is spending $60,000,000 in the next five years for extensions and improvements of its lines. As the state and its industries grow so must the telephone system which serves them.

why didn't He, Mr. Unitarian? He owed it to Himself and to the world and by every principle of philanthropy and every law of decency he owed it to them to save them from the horrible murder they were contemplating. But He acquiesced in the charge and allowed it to stand in all of its repulsiveness to the Jewish mind and sealed His claim by His own heart's blood on the cross where they condemned Him to die because He said, "I am the only begotten Son of God." Could you, a man, say that?

Of course He claimed to be just what the Jews said He did, and when He did it, He was either a blasphemer, or He was just that very person He claimed to be; unless He was a fool and didn't know any better.

He claimed His deity on the three-fold ground of His divine knowledge, His divine power, and His divine authority.

Christ's Divine Knowledge.
1. As to His divine knowledge, He said, "No man knoweth the Son but the Father; and no man knoweth the Father but the Son and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal Him." (Matt. 11:27 and Luke 10:22).

What a daring, what a tremendous statement! How profane and how shocking if He were only a man! Would any man dare to say that he knew God as well as God knew Him? Would you?

2. As to His divine power, among other things He said these three.

1. That He had ability to do whatever the Father did. "Whoever the Father doeth these also doeth the Son likewise." What man ever used language so daring as that and claimed the full right and power to do all that the eternal Father had the right and power to do?

2. That He had the power to raise the dead. "As the Father raiseth up the dead and quickeneth them even so the Son quickeneth whomsoever He will." He said He would raise up His own body (John 2:19-21), and that the day was coming when all the dead would hear His voice and come forth out of their graves. How could He do this if He were not God in some sense that no other man has ever been?

3. That He had power to forgive sins. He said so in so many words. The Jews were right when they asked, "Who can forgive sins but God only?" But Christ not only claimed the right and power to do so, but He emphasized His claim and proved it by a miracle.

Christ's Divine Authority.
III. As to His divine authority, He said in the plainest terms that He will be the Universal Judge at the last great day. He said, "The Father judgeth no man but hath committed all judgment unto the Son." He says that He "will sit on the throne of His glory" and all shall be gathered before Him.

What mortal could say things like these? Who is this that professes to be able to scrutinize the thought and secret motives of men, to sit in judgment upon their words and their deeds and claims the authority to grasp and wield the divine thunderbolts of retribution if He be not something more than a man? Did ever man make a claim like that? Would you, a man, dare to make it?

There are only a few of His claims. He said, "Before Abraham was, I am." Could you, a man, say that? He said, "Glorify Thou me, Oh Father with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." Could a Roosevelt, a Gladstone or a Napoleon say that?

He says to the weary soul, "Come unto me and I will give you rest." Could you, a man, say that?

He says that faith in Him means

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

By JACKSON GREGORY.

For the first few days following the dance Bud Lee had within his soul room but for one emotion: He had held Judith in his arms. He had set his lips on hers. He went hot and cold with the remembrance. Being a man, he made his man-suppositions of the emotions that rankled in her breast. He imagined her contempt of a man who by his strength had forced her lips to wed his; he pictured her scorn, her growing hatred. He told himself that he should go, rid the ranch of his presence, take his departure without a word with her. For, already, he had fitted her into his theory of the perfect woman, lifting her high above himself and above the human world. It was a continued insult for him to remain here.

But, after careful thought, he remembered what Judith had already told him; he was one of the men whom she could trust to do her work for her, one of the men she most needed, a man whom she would need sorely if Bayne Trevors were lying quiet now but to strike harder, unexpectedly, later.

Judith did not dismiss him, as at first he had been sure she would. So he stayed on, remaining away from the ranch headquarters, sleeping when he could in the cabin above the lake, spending his days with his horses, avoiding her but keeping her personality in his soul, her interests in his heart. When the winter had passed, when she had made her sales and had the money in hand for the payments upon the mortgages, then he would go, whereat, no doubt, the high gods smiled.

As time passed, there came about a subtle change in the attitude of the outfit toward Pollock Hampton, whom they had been at the beginning prone to accept as a "city guy." It began to appear that under his lightness there was taken a steady purpose; that if he didn't know everything about a ranch, he was learning fast; that in his outspoken admiration of things rough and manly and primal there were certain lasting qualities. Whereas formerly his being thrown from a spirited mount was almost a daily occurrence, now he rode rather well. With tanned face and hard hands, he was, as Carson put it "growing up."

He came to Judith one day, serious-faced thoughtful-eyed.

"Look here, Judith," he began abruptly, "I'm no outsider just looking on at this game. You're the chief owner and the boss and I'm not kicking at that any longer. Your dad raised you to this sort of thing and you have a way of getting by with it. But, on the other hand, I'm part owner and you've got to consider me."

Judith smiled at him.

"What now, Pollock?" she asked.

"You're the boss," he repeated stoutly. "But I've got a right to be next in authority. Under you, you know. Why, by cripes, I go around feeling as if I had to take orders from Carson or Tripp or any other of the foremen!"

"By cripes" is good!" laughed Judith. "Go ahead."

"That's all," he insisted. "You can tell them, when you get a chance, that I am your little old right-hand man. Suppose," he suggested vaguely, "that you left the ranch a day or so. Or even longer, some time. There's got to be some one here who is the head when there is need for it."

Judith mirthfully acquiesced. Hampton's interest was sufficiently heavy for him to be entitled to some consideration. Besides, she had come to experience a liking for the boy and had seen in him the change for the better which his new life was working in him. Further, she meant to make it her business that she did not leave the ranch for a day or so, or an hour or so, when she should be there. Consequently, within a week Pollock Hampton was known humorously from one end to the other of the big ranch as the Foreman-at-Large.

Marcia Langworthy, visiting in southern California, wrote brief, sunny notes to Hampton, intricate letters to Judith. The mystery of Bud Lee of which she had had a glimpse when the artist, Dick Farris, and Lee recognized each other as old friends had plucked her curiosity in a way which allowed that young daughter of Eve no rest until she had made her own investigations. She wrote at length of Lee. How he had been quite the rage, my dear. Oh, tremendously rich, with a great ranch in the south, a wonderful adobe hacienda of the old Spanish days, where, like a young king, he had entertained lavishly. How, believing in his friends, he had lost everything, then had dropped out of the world; content equally to allow that world to believe him soldiering in France or dear in the trenches and to take his wage as a common laborer. Wasn't it too romantic for anything?

In due course, following up her letters, Marcia herself came back to the Blue Lake ranch, Judith's guest now. The major and Mrs. Langworthy were visiting in the east—it seemed that they always visited somewhere—and Marcia would stay at the ranch indefinitely. Hampton drove into Rocky Bend for her and held the girl's breathless admiration all the way home, handling the reins of his young team in a thoroughly reckless, shivery manner.

"Isn't he splendid?" cried Marcia when she slipped away with Judith to her room.

Under the bright approval of Marcia's eyes Hampton flushed with pleasure. Could Mrs. Langworthy have seen them together she would have nudged the major and whispered in his ear.

When James A. Garfield was president of Hiram college, a man brought up his son to be entered as a student. He wanted the boy to take a course shorter than the regular one.

"My son can never take all those studies," said the father. "He wants to get through more quickly. Can't you arrange it for him?"

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Garfield. "He can take a short course. It all depends on what you want to make of him. When God wants to make an oak, He takes a hundred years, but He takes only two months to make a squash."

At the entrance to the zoological gardens a man approached a keeper.

"Have you really got flying fish here?"

"Yes."

"I'll have to see 'em. Which is the way to the bird cages?"

But, after careful thought, he remembered what Judith had already told him; he was one of the men whom she could trust to do her work for her, one of the men she most needed, a man whom she would need sorely if Bayne Trevors were lying quiet now but to strike harder, unexpectedly, later.

Judith did not dismiss him, as at first he had been sure she would. So he stayed on, remaining away from the ranch headquarters, sleeping when he could in the cabin above the lake, spending his days with his horses, avoiding her but keeping her personality in his soul, her interests in his heart. When the winter had passed, when she had made her sales and had the money in hand for the payments upon the mortgages, then he would go, whereat, no doubt, the high gods smiled.

As time passed, there came about a subtle change in the attitude of the outfit toward Pollock Hampton, whom they had been at the beginning prone to accept as a "city guy." It began to appear that under his lightness there was taken a steady purpose; that if he didn't know everything about a ranch, he was learning fast; that in his outspoken admiration of things rough and manly and primal there were certain lasting qualities. Whereas formerly his being thrown from a spirited mount was almost a daily occurrence, now he rode rather well. With tanned face and hard hands, he was, as Carson put it "growing up."

He came to Judith one day, serious-faced thoughtful-eyed.

"Look here, Judith," he began abruptly, "I'm no outsider just looking on at this game. You're the chief owner and the boss and I'm not kicking at that any longer. Your dad raised you to this sort of thing and you have a way of getting by with it. But, on the other hand, I'm part owner and you've got to consider me."

"What now, Pollock?" she asked.

"You're the boss," he repeated stoutly. "But I've got a right to be next in authority. Under you, you know. Why, by cripes, I go around feeling as if I had to take orders from Carson or Tripp or any other of the foremen!"

"By cripes' is good!" laughed Judith. "Go ahead."

"That's all," he insisted. "You can tell them, when you get a chance, that I am your little old right-hand man. Suppose," he suggested vaguely, "that you left the ranch a day or so. Or even longer, some time. There's got to be some one here who is the head when there is need for it."

Judith mirthfully acquiesced. Hampton's interest was sufficiently heavy for him to be entitled to some consideration. Besides, she had come to experience a liking for the boy and had seen in him the change for the better which his new life was working in him. Further, she meant to make it her business that she did not leave the ranch for a day or so, or an hour or so, when she should be there. Consequently, within a week Pollock Hampton was known humorously from one end to the other of the big ranch as the Foreman-at-Large.

Marcia Langworthy, visiting in southern California, wrote brief, sunny notes to Hampton, intricate letters to Judith. The mystery of Bud Lee of which she had had a glimpse when the artist, Dick Farris, and Lee recognized each other as old friends had piqued her curiosity in a way which allowed that young daughter of Eve no rest until she had made her own investigations. She wrote at length of Lee. How he had been quite the rage, my dear, Oh, tremendously rich, with a great ranch in the south, a wonderful adobe hacienda of the old Spanish days, where, like a young king, he had entertained lavishly. How, believing in his friends, he had lost everything, then had dropped out of the world; content equally to allow that world to believe him soldiering in France or dear in the trenches and to take his wage as a common laborer. Wasn't it too romantic for anything?

In due course, following up her letters, Marcia herself came back to the Blue Lake ranch, Judith's guest now. The major and Mrs. Langworthy were visiting in the east—it seemed that they always visited somewhere—and Marcia would stay at the ranch indefinitely. Hampton drove into Rocky Bend for her and held the girl's breathless admiration all the way home, handling the reins of his young team in a thoroughly reckless, shivery manner.

"Isn't he splendid?" cried Marcia when she slipped away with Judith to her room.

Under the bright approval of Marcia's eyes Hampton flushed with pleasure. Could Mrs. Langworthy have seen them together she would have judged the major and whispered in his ear.

When James A. Garfield was president of Hiram college, a man brought up his son to be entered as a student. He wanted the boy to take a course shorter than the regular one.

"My son can never take all those studies," said the father. "He wants to get through more quickly. Can't you arrange it for him?"

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Garfield. "He can take a short course. It all depends on what you want to make of him. When God wants to make an oak, He takes a hundred years, but He takes only two months to make a squash."

At the entrance to the zoological gardens a man approached a keeper.

"Have you really got flying fish here?"

"Yes."

"I'll have to be 'em. Which is the way to the bird cages?"

Asthma and Kidney Trouble Had Almost Overcome Veteran of Civil War.

MR. ARMSTRONG ACKLEY.

"For forty years I suffered with asthma and kidney trouble, but now, after taking Kad-i-ol, I can truthfully say that my health is very much improved." This testimonial was made by Mr. Armstrong Ackley, 2553 Belmont St., Bellaire, Ohio. Mr. Ackley is a member of the First Baptist church of that city and is well known.

"I am seventy years old and for sixty years I have been a farmer. I am a member of the G. A. R. and the ill health I have always had was due to exposure in service in the Civil war. I have had asthma so bad for years that it became necessary for me to grease my throat and nostrils in order to get my breath. Lately I have been so run down that I could not work at all."

"Kidney trouble bothered me greatly at night, and because I did not get my proper rest, I was nervous and had no appetite. I decided to try Kad-i-ol, and it has been a blessing to me. My asthma is entirely gone and I sleep all night without waking up. I not only eat heartily when my meals are set before me but I get hungry between meals. I find work a pleasure again and this improved state of health I owe to Kad-i-ol which I consider a wonderful remedy."

Kad-i-ol can be obtained in East Liverpool at the Mathews' Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 West 6th St.

Animals Know the Great Value of Herbs

Animals have a wonderful instinct. Did you ever notice how a sick animal will hunt through the fields for certain herbs and eat them? Even a dog will eat grass when his stomach isn't right. Primitive people have this same instinct. The herbs of the fields contain healing for most all ailments, and they surely contain the right elements for a splendid tonic, as shown by the brilliant success of World's Tonic. For all cases of stomach trouble, sluggish liver, overworked kidneys and constipation, it has met with most remarkable success. When you cover these four points you have covered

DEMOCRAT HEADS NATIONAL NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE FOR COOLIDGE

Elephant and Donkey Unite for Nation's Good

The elephant and the donkey, time-honored symbols of the two great political parties of the country, are united in the Coolidge Non-Partisan League, consisting of leading Democrats and Republicans, who, placing patriotism before politics, are supporting President Coolidge, believing that his election is essential to the country's welfare. Col. Rhinelander Waldo, a former Democratic office-holder as New York fire commissioner and red and green, and bearing the sceptre symbols of his power, the Emir, surrounded by his chieftains, consented to be interviewed in a fashionable London hotel, for the benefit and education of the Northern races.

An interpreter was a necessity. The interviewer rather cautiously suggested that the Emir might be willing to discuss his harem, but the interpreter refused to even question the Emir, but admitted that the Emir wanted the world to know that wives were worth all the trouble they caused.

"Why?" queried the inquisitive interviewer.

The Emir rolled his eyes and responded. The interpreter said that the Emir said:

"Wives are worth trouble only because they work. In Katsina they must spin so much cotton each day, and they must do so much housework. And they are unpaid."

"Three of them began the great Journey with me, but only one of them dared the ordeal of the railway train. The others caused me the expense of motoring them 100 miles to the railroad and then refused to come further, despite my protestations. I was greatly disappointed."

"The only one who was brave enough to continue with me was a young girl. She is the well-bred daughter of a mighty emir, and intelligent as well."

Here the Emir was questioned about wives being troublesome.

"Yes," replied the Emir after thought. "Sometimes they are troublesome. But then when wives quarrel a little or are jealous a little, we call them up in front of us and tell them not to do it again. That is usually enough."

The Emir explained that divorce is easy in Katsina and wives need only be told to go and they are considered divorced and this makes discipline easy. Perhaps the Emir doesn't find wives as troublesome as Northern husbands and perhaps that's why he feels that "wives are worth all the trouble they cause."

Heart and Kidney Diseases Caused By Torpid Liver

Blood carries body poisons through the system to vital organs

To clear our systems of poisons that taint the blood and break down health, we must keep the liver in good condition. Medical science now knows that the liver is our most important organ because it destroys the body poisons that cause diseases of the heart, kidneys, blood vessels, create high blood pressure and premature old age.

When the liver becomes torpid, these poisons, instead of being destroyed, are carried through the system by the blood. Then Nature gives quick warnings. You have sudden sick headaches, dizzy spells and nausea. If your stomach is acid from sour bile and your skin becomes sallow or blotchy, you may know poisons are in your blood.

The liver cannot be regulated by drugs, but there is a safe Nature substance which will act directly on the liver. The discovery is purified ox gall.

Get from your drug list a package of Dioxol. Each tablet contains ten drops of purified ox gall. In 24 hours the poison toxins will be removed. Your liver will be regulated. Blood purification will begin. Sallow skin will clear. You will feel so much better you will know you have found the cause of your ill health. Dioxol tablets are harmless, tasteless and cost less than two cents each.

These genuine ox gall tablets are prepared only under the name "Dioxol." If any tablet is offered you under another name, refuse it. Accept only Dioxol in the original genuine package.

BOONE'S GRIDDERS RETURN TO HOME LOT SATURDAY

Confidence Marks Plans Of Local Highs As They Drill For Lisbon Clash

Spare no Efforts in Anticipation of Defeating County Seaters Decisively; Entire Squad in Good Condition.

Foes of long years standing will renew their gridiron hostilities on Saturday afternoon at Patterson Field in the clash between East Liverpool and Lisbon high school elevens, with followers of the Blue and White team supremely confident, and not without cause, that the county seaters are in for a disappointing afternoon.

Coached by L. H. Johnson, former Hiram grid mentor, who now functions as clerk for the county commissioners, the Lisbon school boys have been showing an improved brand of football, but they lack the punch, it is firmly believed, to make much of an impression on the Ceramic city griders.

In former years, the county seaters reigned supreme on the gridiron and in other athletic endeavors but that era has floated off into oblivion and the change in scenery now finds the erstwhile champions playing not even second fiddle as other county teams continue to hand them jolt after jolt.

The Lisbonites, however, probably feel that some day they will come into their own, if any. In the meantime no little credit goes out to them for their battles of recent years in the face of many handicaps.

This year they can not be held too lowly. The opinion is that they will be defeated by the East Liverpool lads, it's true, but at the same time they will be prepared to fight every inch of the way, if they retain the qualities which marked their athletic endeavors of recent years, despite their many defeats.

Consequently Coach O. V. Boone will not allow his griders to curtail any drill work that will make the ensemble a better and stronger team for the Saturday game. Though defeated last Saturday, the locals feel no overwhelming grief, because they gave their best and lost only to a superior team.

YALE GRIDDERS ARE MYSTERY

Jones Does Not Know Whether They're Champs or Chumps.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—Rodin probably didn't know whether he had a master piece or a gob of mud when he began to model the immortal gentleman who was destined to spend the rest of his existence in meditation.

Tad Jones, head coach of the Yale football team, is pleased to admit that he and Robin have something in common. Tad is giving an earnest try to the matter of modeling a Yale team after the manner of its immediate predecessor, but the clay is still a trifle damp, the lines are blurred and somewhat in need of a shave and the general contour is reminiscent of unfinished worsted.

Frankly, Tad Jones doesn't know whether he has another champion or another chump. He has had both in his varied career at dear old Yale University and it is getting so that he has difficulty in recognizing the difference at this early stage of the proceedings.

"I'll tell you all about it; it's this way," quoth he. "We are at the Great Divide. From this point on we either win or we lose. You see how it is."

Mr. Jones Optimistic.

The writer nodded. He saw. What Mr. Jones meant was that Yale would have a good season if it won, or vice versa, mostly versa. But he needs must know more in spite of the fact that a squad of under coaches sat at the same table and listened intently to his every syllable.

Was Yale as far advanced now as it was at a corresponding period last year? No, it seemed not. Why? Well, you see, Yale had several inexperienced youths, namely Sturhahn and Wortham, guards, and Root, a tackle, who had yet to learn what it was that took all the fun out of fundamental.

But in spite of the fact that he talked down everything, Jones gave the impression that he was more or less enamored of his young men, taken in general. The writer got this idea when, in trying to establish a point, he asked if it were not true that Dartmouth outplayed Yale on Saturday last.

"No, it isn't," replied Mr. Jones, in his take it or leave it way. We marched 59 yards for our first touchdown which may give you an idea of how our attack was working for the defense. Dartmouth twice had the ball on the 20 yard line with a first down and couldn't gain. The second time, a forward pass bounded off one man into another's arms and that let them out."

Yes, Jones rather likes the Yale team. Behind the scenes it is said he expects to be the Army next Saturday a week and perforce, Harvard and Princeton in the big games.

BRIGHT TENNIS YEAR FORECAST

Borotra, Bugnon and Kinsey Brothers on Foreign Courts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Tennis during the coming season promises to be greater internationally than it has been at any time during its history. The United States, French, Australian and Japanese players are planning tours in various countries which are of mammoth scope, and the English are due in the United States.

The Kinsey brothers, Robert and Howard, according to present plans, are going to make a sweeping tour through Australia, Japan and China. This will be their first long trip and will extend over a period of six months. Bob Kinsey last year went to Honolulu, capturing the mid-Pacific tournament there, and the brothers have made other short excursions, but nothing corresponding to the present one.

Jean Borotra, captain of the French Davis Cup team, which was defeated this year by Australia at Longwood, has planned a year of constant travel, covering practically the same course as that of the Kinsey brothers. With him will travel Jacques Brugnon.

It is expected that the Harvard Yale team will be hosts to the Oxford-Cambridge tennis players next summer. This year the Americans went to the other side.

T. Harada and Masanao Fukuda during the last season talked of bringing several college undergraduates to this country so that they might see how the game is played here. It is possible that the plan will be carried out.

Vincent Richards for a while contemplated a trip to Australia, but will remain in this country for the time being. His trip was to have taken him through February to the formal opening of next season.

It is also expected that the Australian Davis Cup team will be back in this country next summer. This year found Pat O'Hara Wood, Norman E. Brookes, R. E. Schlesinger and Frederick Kalmes here for six months, playing in all the leading tournaments.

WESTERN GRID TEAMS IN TEST

Saturday's Grid Games Will Reveal Conference Strength.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—The first real tests of strength in the western conference football race will be revealed in Saturday's three contests. At last, the dopsters and statistic hounds will have a chance to interpret comparative scores.

Primarily, the Ohio State-Chicago contest scheduled for the big Ohio stadium will serve to indicate whether the heavy Iowa eleven which was held to a tie by the Buckeyes, 10 days ago, can still hold its claim to gridiron excellence or whether the Scarlet and Grey has again come into its own. It will show whether the Maroons, who dropped a game to Missouri and then walloped Brown in an international game and repeated against Indiana, are another of the "old Chicago teams" that made Alonzo Stagg famous.

Some sort of an indication as to whether Illinois is the wonder team of the big ten race or whether Michigan is just in for a bad year, may be noted when the Wolverines meet Wisconsin at Madison. The Badgers emerged from the Minnesota melee with the credit of a moral victory. The Michigan eleven left Champaign bent under an unmerciful defeat.

Minnesota, who was the other half of last week's 7-7 tie with Wisconsin meets Iowa at Iowa City. Coach Spaulding is working night and day to hold true the pre-season predictions that this would be a Minnesota year. With him, are a flock of assistant coaches and old alumni, including the sensational Bert Baston, the Gophers all-American end of ten years back.

New York Board Seeks Candidates For Boxing Titles

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The boxing commission took steps today to develop outstanding candidates—vice champions—for the lightweight and featherweight titles.

Elimination tournaments among the qualified boxers in each class, one headed by Benny Leonard and the other vacated by Johnny Dundee, are planned. George E. Brower, chairman, favors a "draw" system of matching the contenders, similar to that used in amateur tournaments, with an entry, limited to six or eight of the leading boxers in each class. The ultimate winner would be designated as the outstanding contender—and as the champion of the division if the title holder declines to defend his crown.

NOTRE DAME'S FIRST FOOTBALL TEAM WILL RE-ASSEMBLE FOR HOMECOMING

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 22.—The "grand old football team" of Notre Dame is going back to visit its alma mater.

The first team to represent the famous Catholic university of Indiana will return November 1 for the big homecoming game between Coach Knute Rockne's varsity and the "Golden Tornado" of Georgia Tech. The "old boys" will be guests of honor at the homecoming banquet the night of the game.

It will be as turning back the laureled pages of Notre Dame's football history almost two-score years. For the team of 1887-1888 gave Notre Dame its baptism in football.

From far away, inland Washington, down to Texas and east to Michigan, the "grand old team" will assemble at South Bend, Indiana. Every player, but one, has been reached and has promised to attend the reunion.

Capitalists, judges, high army officers, physicians and business men are these old Notre Dame men—successful in many lines of endeavor.

The personnel of the team is:

Dr. H. B. Luhn, captain and half-back—Physician and surgeon, Spokane, Wash.

Joseph E. Cusack, quarterback—Colonel U. S. cavalry, El Paso, Tex.

George A. Houck, tackle—Retired cattle man, Portland, Oregon.

Joseph L. Hepburn, end—Insurance business, Detroit, Mich.

Edward "Slim" Sawkins, guard—Sanitary officer, Detroit, Mich.

Frank "Dutch" Fehr, center—Captain, Louisville, Ky.

F. H. "Dad" Springer, end—Columbus, Ga.

Ed. Prudhomme, fullback—Member of the Legislature, Bermuda, La.

Patrick J. Nelson, guard—Judge of the District Court of Iowa, Dubuque, Iowa.

Eugene P. "Butch" Melady, tackle—Meat packing business, Omaha, Neb.

H. M. "Hal" Jewett, halfback—President of the Paige Motor Company, Detroit, Mich.

How many will be the reminiscences of these old teammates as they gather at the banquet table—some of them to meet again for the first time since they fought for Notre Dame in 1887-1888? And what a change they will see in comparing their old team with the brilliant Rockne eleven of today!

It has been suggested that a feature of the unique reunion and homecoming be a one-minute scrimmage between the "boys of '87" and the present varsity. Perhaps such an event will materialize, but Dr. Luhn, of Spokane, Wash., captain of the "first" N-D team, says it would be "just one minute too long" for him.

The idea of the reunion of the old team germinated in the mind of Dr. Luhn. Ten months ago he wrote to his teammates, suggesting that they gather at South Bend this November 1. His response was most gratifying. He was able to reach every member of his team except "Dad" Springer, of Columbus, Ga. Ten members of the Tom Mix taught his famous cowpony, Tony, a novel trick for his recently completed picture, "The Trouble Shooter," written by the Hattons and directed by Jack Conway at the William Fox West Coast Studios, Hollywood. This story deals with the so-called trouble man for a big power plant, whose job it is to see that wires and cables are kept in perfect condition.

"The Trouble Shooter," is compelled to ride through treacherous snowy country to perform his duty. It is necessary that his horse be able to walk on snowshoes. To perfect this important detail Mr. Mix taught Tony the art of snowshoe walking. As for himself, he used skills.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Pierre Wertheimer, who postponed his trip to Europe to see Epinaud beaten at Laurel last Saturday, was to sail for France today. Epinaud will be taken back November 5 and will be retired to the stud in Normandy, according to Wertheimer.

Wertheimer expressed the hope that some day one of Epinaud's sons would be fast enough to be sent here to match strides with the best of America's thoroughbreds.

Willie Hoppe Easy Winner in First Block of Match

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Willie Hoppe, champion balk line billiardist, turning to the three-cushion game, swept Augie Kieckhefer off his feet in the first two blocks of their 400-point match. Hoppe led today 100 to 57, winning the afternoon round 50 to 22 and the evening round 50 to 35. Hoppe had a high run of eight and required 87 innings to make his 100 points. Kieckhefer's high run was five.

more power for God over the people of that metropolitan city than all the pastors combined, and whose death brought endless streams of people, rich and poor, who piled flowers on his coffin so high that they hid the pulpit, and beneath that pyramid of flowers slept Jerry McAuley.

He takes a rough and Godless snorter with a kit of burglar tools wrapped up in a piece of carpet and transforms him into a Harry Monroe. He takes a poor drunken hard baby in the hovel he had made for them while he rolled in the gutter on a beastly drunk, and by the working of His mighty Spirit makes him over into a Mel Trotter.

He took Saul the murderer and the blinding bigot and made him into Paul the mighty Apostle and the greatest preacher the world has ever known. He took Augustine, a young libertine and sport of Rome and made him into St. Augustine, the greatest theologian of his or any other age. He took John Bunyan, the drunken swearing tinker, touched his heart and mind and John Bunyan wrote for use the "Pilgrim's Progress."

Try to explain such marvelous transformation of human character apart from the mighty miracle working power of the Lord Jesus Christ and you do violence to reason, insult the memory of all these good men and pour contempt upon the name of the Christ who saved them.

When a student in Princeton university I went down into the lower part of New York City and worked in the old Jerry McAuley mission. I there met that marvelous man, Samuel Honkins Hadley, and learned from him the story of his wonderful conversion. How I used to like to sit and hear him tell it. He said, "I was a bad man and I wanted to be good. I wanted to be honest, but I was crooked. I wanted to pray, but I was always cursing. I wanted to be truthful, but I was a liar. I wanted to be sober, but I couldn't stay on the water-wagon. And I said, 'What am I to do?' My ideals are all right but I can't reach them. What must I do to be saved?"

Yes, Sir, that's the great question. If you have never asked it, I pray God you may ask it tonight.

The Universalist comes along and says, "Quit your meanness, but you'll be saved anyhow if you do your best." The Theosophist comes in on the scene and says, "Aspire and you'll be a god in a few million years."

The Spiritualist hobs up and says, "Be good and you'll come out all right."

Hoo Hadley's Salvation.

But Hop Hadley had tried to be good long enough and never got any where. And he said, "I'm sick of sin. I'm burdened with guilt and I want the burden to roll off. I want peace; and I want to be good and I want an assurance that will stand the test of life and death and eternity."

Then Jesus Christ, the mighty Saviour, whom God sent, walked out and stood before him. Yes, He did; for Hop said, "I saw Him. He stood before me and said, 'I can do all things for you: will you let me do it?'"

In a saloon at the corner of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Third Avenue, and my dear friend of sainted memory walked up to the bar and struck it with his fist and said, "I'll never take another drink if I die."

And the great big, horn-bowed, red-headed son of perdition behind the bar laughed in his face and told him to "go to hell." And Hop staggered out into the night and staggered around until he found a cop and said to him, "Officer, I'm going to have delirium tremens; won't you please lock me up in a cell and whatever you do, don't give me any whiskey."

The officer locked him up in a cell and if ever a man spent a night in hell, poor Hop Hadley went through it all that night. Late in the afternoon of the next day he asked to have the cell door opened and he went out as weak he could scarcely walk. As he walked by the saloons that glared at him on every side he said he could smell the whiskey clear through the bottle and the window pane. And for force he went into the mission where Jerry McAuley was telling how Jesus met him and saved him from his wild, thieving, drunken career. He made his way trembling down to the front and knelt down with a number of other drunks. There was one woman among them. And Jerry McAuley prayed and said, "Dear Jesus, the Devil has got these men in an awful hole; won't you help them out?" Then he told them to pray and Hop tells the rest of the story.

Brandeis Is Going Hunting Again; Last Trip Cost Wife and Million

The last time John Ervin Brandeis of Omaha, came back from a hunting-trip in Africa, his wife, Mrs. Brandeis No. 2 (above), sued him for divorce and obtained, it was reported at the time, alimony of $1,000,000, a record figure. Now, his exchequer reinforced by an inheritance of $5,000,000 he is going hunting again, alone. He'll seek tigers in India. Inset is a sketch of the camera-shy hunter.

He said, "This poor man cried and the Lord heard him. I said, 'Jesus, I'm a drunkard; can you make me sober?'"

Jesus, I'm unclear; can you make me pure?"

Jesus, I'm profane and I'm a blasphemous; can you help me to pray?"

Jesus, I'm lost; can you give me peace?"

And Jesus said, "I can and I will!"

And like the mighty Christ He is He took the poor, worthless, drunken bum, redeemed him by His infinite power and made him one of the mightiest apostles to the oneness of the world has ever known.

Yes, it takes someone who is more than a man to redeem humanity like that.

And I can see vast multitudes gathered around His standard from every quarter of the globe, the rich, the refined, and the intelligent, the poor and the unlettered and the redeemed of every kind; the millions who Napoleon Bonaparte said would die for Jesus; and they shout in one glad, grateful voice, "This is the Christ we know; the Christ who saves like a God; blessed be His holy name!"

Men and women, listen to me; Has He ever touched your life? Do you want a Saviour like that—a Christ who is omniscient, One who, "being in the form of God, took upon Himself the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of man. And being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name; that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven and things in earth and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the God the Father."

There is a verse of Scripture which says, "What shall the end be to them that obey not the Gospel of the Lord Jesus?"

But now right here in this life, you can't afford to live without Him.

What are you going to do when your conscience walks out in front of you and points its accusing finger at you? What are you going to do when misfortune and the waves of adversity overwhelm you?

What are you going to do when the undertaker comes and takes the measure for the little shroud?

What are you going to do in the night of despair when the stars are dead?

But the end is coming just the same and what are you going to do then?

The Gates of Heaven.

I have looked as if in a dream through the gates of heaven. I stood, as it were, by an angel's side who was there to guard the way. And as I stood there the spirit of a rich man came and tried to get admission. He told the angel of his wealth and the vast treasures he had gathered on earth. But the angel pointed to his soul and said, "We pave our streets with that stuff; you have not got enough to buy even a glimpse into the celestial city." And then a moral man came and told the angel who he was, told him of his morality and talked of the good works he had done. But the angel said, "Not of works, lest any man should boast; you can't come in." Then came the spirit of another man and told the angel his respectability, his reputation and talked of the good name he had borne among his neighbors. But the angel shook his head and said, "There is none other name given under heaven whereby we must be saved but the name of Jesus." And then there came the spirit of another one saying, "Nothing in my hands I bring; Simply to the cross I cling."

Christ's Blood Cleanses.

The blood of Jesus Christ hath cleansed me from sin." And the gates of heaven rolled back on their jeweled hinges and the angel cried, "Unto you is administered an abundant entrance into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." And as the gates rolled back I saw whole armies of redeemed drunks and numberless legions of those redeemed from the vilest sinks of sin, and whole acres of redeemed men and women who once had trusted in their morality and their good name but gave it all up for a righteousness not their own. And they had crowns on their heads and palms of victory in their hands; and I saw one whose face and form I could not mistake. One like unto Jesus, and He ascended the throne and the vast throngs whom no man could number took their crowns and cast them at His feet and they waved their palms, and I heard them cry and they said, "Wonderful; Counselor; the Mighty God; the Everlasting Father; the Prince of Peace! All hail the power of Jesus Name, Let angels prostrate fall; Bring forth the royal diadem And crown Him Lord of All." Will you crown Him your Lord tonight?
